

OREGON MASSES TROOPS TO SMASH REBELLION

President Moves Swiftly Against Revolt Leaders; West Coast to Remain Loyal

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CULIACAN (Mex.) Dec. 7.—Gen. Angel Flores, former Governor of Sinaloa and military commander of the Mexican West Coast States, issued a statement today repudiating dispatches from Vera Cruz mentioning his name as one of those identified with the insurrection in that district. The local officials are a unit in declaring that the West Coast States will remain loyal. Gen. Flores, who is one of the three leading candidates for the Presidency of Mexico, is in complete control of this region.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 7.—The government is contemplating calling out reserves to the number of 20,000 to reinforce the regular troops of whom 20,000 have been started toward Vera Cruz to put down the rebel started by Guadalupe Sanchez and Adolfo de La Huerta.

KIDNAPERS

Vera Cruz along the several routes and will be followed up by constant reinforcements. President Obregon, back from Celaya, where he has been recuperating his health, says sentimentously "the country will be pacified," as he prepares to exert all possible force against the rebels.

Gen. Sanchez is reported to have 3000 troops with him at Vera Cruz and to have other strong forces at his disposal in various States of the republic to which the anti-Obregon movement has extended.

It is reported Sanchez has dispatched a strong force to Jalapa where it is expected a clash with Federal troops will take place.

MOSBACH, Dec. 7.—Corliss Hoover Griffin of Hamilton, O., today was sentenced to serve twenty-one months in prison for con-reported between government forces and rebels in the State of Vera Cruz and that the government will not force a battle until the mobilization of its troops and war material has been completed.

The War Secretary confirmed a rumor that Gen. Enrique Estrada, commander of the Federal forces in the State of Jalisco, had revolted with 1000 men, including cavalry and artillery. The Gov-the revolt of Gen. Figueroa, in the State of Guerrero, had been settled by an agreement of the general to turn over his troops and arms to the government.

OREGON TAKES CHARGE

President Obregon arrived here last night and immediately took personal charge of the situation. Both the President and the Secretary of War were inclined to discount the seriousness of the situation and stated their belief that Sanchez and Estrada would be quickly subdued and all traffic on the Mexican and Inter-Oceanic railways will be resumed. The Federal troops have established an advance line of defense at Orizaba on the line of mouth-

OIL IMPORT NECESSITY SEEN

Geologist at Teapot Dome Quiz Says Country Will Depend on Foreign Product in Five Years

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The United States will be dependent on imports within five years for a definite portion of its oil supply, David White, expert geologist of the Geological Survey, predicted today in testifying in the senate Public Land Committee's inquiry into leasing of naval oil reserves.

Declaring that it was "necessarily more of a prophecy than an estimate," Mr. White added that

"That would do me no good," said Senator Walsh. "I want to show that you can give no reply from your own knowledge."

he was doubtful if the Navy could go five years longer with constantly increasing consumption on domestic production. Other supplies must be drawn out, he said, "either from irregularly increasing regulation fields or from oil shale."

Chairman Smoot asked if a similar opinion had not been held by oil men in 1917-18.

MORE FIELDS SEEN
"As I understood it," Mr. White said, "the prediction then was that we had reached the end of the line."

"Do you consider all the oil fields in the United States have been discovered?" asked Senator Smoot.

"Emphatically not."

A tilt occurred between Secretary Denby and Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, during the session. In reply to several questions concerning leases, Mr. Denby replied that he "did not know."

"As a matter of fact you know nothing of these matters," suggested Senator Walsh.

"If I might refer to the department's files," replied Mr. Denby,

"I would gladly answer any question," more right to nullify an act of Congress than would a clerk."

Leading Editors Praise President's First Message to Congress

REACTION TO COOLIDGE
ADDRESS IS FAVORABLERepublican and Democratic Papers
Alike Commend Executive's
Clean-Cut Expression

Favorable reaction to President Coolidge's first message to Congress is indicated in editorial comment in leading newspapers representing all sections of the country gathered by The Times last night. Even strong representative Democratic papers are warm in their praise of the President's policies and his clean-cut expression of his purposes. Following are some of the comments made:

New York Times.—The President's message reveals first-class political ability. With it in his hand, Mr. Coolidge steps forward as the inevitable leader of his party. For he has given it a policy which it must take or be beaten. He has laid before the country a program to which there has already been an immense popular response, and which will grow stronger every day until it is adopted.

DIRECT AND EXPLICIT.—The New York Sun—President Coolidge's message is admirably simple, direct and explicit. No one can read what he says and fail to understand what he means and where he stands. As a declaration of policy it is the utterance of a careful administrator.

New York Evening Telegram.—Needful readjustment of the relations between the government and the people of the United States of America upon the basis of real peace appears to have been the dominating thought in the mind of Calvin Coolidge when he composed his first message to the Congress. From the beginning of the document to its end this seems to have been the whole spirit of the chief executive in his reminder to the Legislature of what the people expect and what he knows, their proper spokesman, believes to be their duty. It is plain talk from a plain man which the plain people should grasp with ease.

TAX REDUCTION.—The New York Evening World—Clear, straightforward, urgent is the part of the President's message that deals with tax reduction. This is the part to which the people will turn first. That is the issue of issues for the country at large. That is the hope of relief upon which millions of overburdened taxpayers have set their hearts. It is cause for deep satisfaction that the President has made it an important question as the country rates it.

New York Evening Post.—The President has shown courage on the side of the World Court by standing against the Johnsons and McCormicks. His message is in many respects admirable. But his vision has not reached to the full measure of the problem of world recognition.

AMERICAN FLAVOR.—The New York Tribune—There is an unmistakable American flavor to President Coolidge's first message to Congress. It has simplicity of language, its scorn of ordinary political humbug, plainly derived from a great trust in the American people as wanting to hear no cant, pretenses, or promises, but the simple truth.

New York Herald.—President Coolidge's message is a model of clearness and brevity. It is heavy, wandering phrases. Its candor and terseness are just what the country expected from Coolidge. He is a master of writing for the public. He knows the value of the short, cracking line. He knows when to stop. In general Mr. Coolidge's first message shows the earnest desire of a conservative President to point the way to better things.

TURNING TO CONSERVATIVES.—The New York World—Politically, Mr. Coolidge serves notice that as a candidate for Presidency he turns to the conservative element in his party for support. He looks to the East and Middle West for his nomination and for election, if nominated. His identification of himself with conservatism is partly, no doubt, the result of anxious thought after consultation with his advisers. It is mainly instinctive, however, as Mr. Calvin Coolidge grew up a farmer boy in Vermont, not Kansas.

Chicago Tribune.—Mr. Coolidge's first address to the Congress is a characteristic utterance, wasting no words. The President does well to emphasize the importance of maintaining the budget system.

RESPECT OPINION.—Though we disagree with him, Mr. Coolidge gives his unequalled approval of Mr. Mellon's plan and recommends decrease in taxes on earned income, diminution of charges on moderate incomes, and also provision downward of surtaxes, which he points out, will stimulate industry and give more employment, as well as probably increasing revenue returns.

St. Paul Dispatch.—The President's message more than conveys to a certain number of Senators and Representatives "information and the state of the Union." It conveys the President himself to the nation. His program is sound. Mr. Coolidge has improved his already strong position before the nation by this message.

Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.—President Coolidge's message makes a clear, direct, unequivocal, forceful statement of his program. It is a statement of confidence in the administration and encourages the people in pursuing the good purpose to which the country is committed.

SHOWS STATESMANSHIP.—Detroit Free-Press—The message is a masterpiece of statesmanship and courage. It is sound. It shows grasp and statesmanship. Clearly the new England conscience has been heard at work. Mr. Coolidge does not precisely lean backward in order to make himself clear regarding subjects that are vexatious to him, but he certainly holds himself erect.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.—The nation now knows exactly what President Coolidge stands for. He has given it a map of his mind and the country will approve the course he has charted. There is no question of whether he is a policy-maker or a policy-follower. The whole message is keyed to sanity. It is a message of a man who writes for the people and not for the White House.

NO DEMAGOGY.—Atlanta Constitution—In this remarkable message there is not a line of demagoguery, no political clap-net. It is businesslike, statesmanlike. The Democrats in Congress are better off than in hearty co-operation in the enactment of a program so sound and so clearly and resolutely laid down.

Cincinnati Enquirer.—No one can read the message of President Coolidge without appreciating how fully he is in the master of world recognition.

AMERICAN FLAVOR.—The New York Tribune—There is an unmistakable American flavor to President Coolidge's first message to Congress. It has simplicity of language, its scorn of ordinary political humbug, plainly derived from a great trust in the American people as wanting to hear no cant, pretenses, or promises, but the simple truth.

TURNING TO CONSERVATIVES.—The New York World—Politically, Mr. Coolidge serves notice that as a candidate for Presidency he turns to the conservative element in his party for support. His identification of himself with conservatism is partly, no doubt, the result of anxious thought after consultation with his advisers. ROW IS BREWING

ing that Mr. Shipstead be given the extra place on the Agriculture Committee and others are asking that Mr. Johnson be given the extra place on the Agriculture Committee.

Republican leaders have hoped to have the committee assignments ready for a party conference Monday, but it was said that unless more rapid progress was made today this could not be accomplished.

The Democratic Steering Committee expects to complete its work on committee assignments tomorrow.

On the House side the Republican Committee on Committees at its first meeting decided to give the Democrats increased representation on all the standing committees except the all-powerful Rules Committee. The minority will have four members as against the majority's three on the same ratio in effect during the Sixty-seventh Congress.

NEW RATIO FIXED.—There will be eleven Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee, while Democrats of the committee's membership having been increased by one to assure Republican control. This is the committee which will initiate any tax reduction legislation.

On the Appropriations Committee, the ratio will be twenty-one Republicans to fourteen Democrats. On the major committees which will have a membership of twenty-one each, the division will be twelve to nine.

The Committee on Committees made tentative assignments of Republicans to half a dozen committees. The House committee to handle all legislation affecting veterans. Republican leaders have indicated they also favor a move.

ATTACK TARIFF VOTE.—An unsuccessful fight to unseat Representative Martin of Louisiana as a member of the Ways and Means Committee was launched in the Democratic caucus by Representative Dismick of South Carolina. The vote was 120 to 116. Four members of this committee were returned—Rains of Illinois, Hull of Massachusetts, Dismick of South Carolina and Casey of Pennsylvania. Representative Garner of Texas will be the ranking Democratic member, succeeding the late Claude Kitchin.

Under the plan determined upon by the Republican Committee on Committees, Representative Green of Iowa will become chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. The Republican Committee on Committees will continue its slate making tomorrow, with the expectation of determining assignments to the Rules and Appropriations committees.

INSURGENTS HOLD PLACES.—Representative Fear of Wisconsin, one of the leaders of the insurgents, retained his place on the committee. Insurgents who have been in the language of intelligent men or woman can understand, if Congress will act on it in the spirit of fair play, that the country will be benefited, although certain special interests will be disappointed.

MACREADY NEAR HIGH AIR MARK.—Flyer Forced to Earth by Motor Trouble When Close to Victory.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
DAYTON (Ohio) Dec. 7.—Flying a La Perre biplane equipped with a Moss super-charger, Lieut. John A. Macready today attempted to surpass the altitude record held by Sadi Lacoite, the French ace, but was forced to land on account of mechanical troubles after being in the air for one hour and twenty minutes.

The weather was ideal and conditions seemed favorable for breaking the record of 36,555 feet held by the Frenchman when Lieut. Macready took the air at 10 a. m. but he was forced to return to earth when near his goal. Celebration of the barographs is expected to reduce the altitude figure of approximately 37,000 feet somewhat, but how much official observers would not say.

Additional flights will be made. McCook field officials announced the date depending on the weather and the time required to go over the super-charger and motor.

BRYAN IN FAVOR OF RELIGION.—Prefers Christianity to Geology and Ignorance to Criminal Ways.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—William Jennings Bryan, three candidate for President of the United States, today told Baptist Fundamentalists he preferred Christianity to geology.

"If," he said, "we have come to the stage at which we must decide between geology and Christianity, I think it is better that we know 'The Rock of Ages' than 'The Age of Rocks.'" week will be the first formal effort to bring together the various individuals and organizations already on record as favoring the President's nomination, and an aggressive campaign for Coolidge delegates is expected to follow the organization conference.

Two will enroll 100,000 forward-facing Republican men and women north of the Tehachapi in the strongest organization ever known in California. Secretary of State Jordan announced today. Mr. Jordan, who has completed a tour of counties in both the northern and southern portions of the State, asserted that "everywhere I found the sentiment strongly in favor of Coolidge, the President-elect."

GABRIEL'S STATEMENT.—His announcement of the Republican conference, Mr. Gabriel, who is serving as the chairman of the committee on organization, said today.

"Many Republicans in this State believe that the present Republican administration has been eminently successful in its policy of economy and in its accomplishment. They do not want to 'swap horses crossing a stream.' They believe our present prosperity can best be maintained and increased by continuing the policies of the present administration."

The committee on Committees made tentative assignments of Republicans to half a dozen committees. The House committee to handle all legislation affecting veterans. Republican leaders have indicated they also favor a move.

Under the plan determined upon by the Republican Committee on Committees, Representative Green of Iowa will become chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. "If," he said, "we have come to the stage at which we must decide between geology and Christianity, I think it is better that we know 'The Rock of Ages' than 'The Age of Rocks.'"

Mr. Bryan said he would rather have his boy unable to read and write and honest than an imbecile of a politician and a scholar.

Banking Committee Believes Funds Sufficient
Experts Little Alarmed by New Revolution

Sum Gathered to Disburse Bond Service

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Announcing that sufficient funds had been remitted by the Mexican government to provide the first year's service on bonds now deposited, the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico tonight declared the plan of debt readjustment operative.

Simultaneous announcements were made in New York, London, Paris and Mexico City. Today's action marked the consummation of steps inaugurated February 24, 1919, when formation of the International Committee of Bankers was undertaken.

The committee is now in the process of raising available funds for bond interest payments on the Mexican external debt, aggregating about $50,000,000 in principal, on bonds now deposited. In June, 1922, after conferences here at which Mexico was represented by Adolfo de la Huerta, the Mexican Minister of Finance.

LAMONT ACTIVE.—The official announcement states that sufficient progress has been made both in the deposit of bonds and in the raising of funds for interest service during 1923 to justify the committee in declaring the plan operative.

"Not only has there been more than sufficient to provide for the first year's service on bonds now deposited," said an announcement by Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., chairman of the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico, "but the minimum fund of $15,000,000 United States gold covering the first year's service on the $50,000,000 debt has been included within the agreement."

AGREEMENT SATISFIED.—The committee has received from the Mexican government, Mr. Lamont said, a letter of appreciation for the completion of the $15,000,000 fund. "The committee," he said, "is satisfied that the Mexican government is now in a position to meet its obligations."

PAYMENT IMMEDIATE.—Bondholders were invited to deposit their bonds promptly. The committee of bankers reserves the right to accept deposits after December 31, 1923, on such terms and conditions as the committee may fix.

Actual payments probably will not be made until after the end of the year, as considerable time will be required to prepare coupons and warrants to be attached to the original bonds. Mr. Lamont pointed out informally that the bonds deposited under the plan would be returned to the owners with the papers now being prepared by the committee and applying to the operation of the agreement.

SEAS LASH CITY JETTY AT EUREKA.—Waves Pound Walls and Rails; Shipping Stands by Until Lull.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
EUREKA, Dec. 7.—A mountainous sea is breaking clear across the entrance to Humboldt bay, and the damage done to this year's jetty work by the winter storms has run into several hundred thousand dollars. Capt. Robridge of the Coast Guard, who has been watching the bay today, estimates that about 200 feet, or the entire "cap" of heavy stone amounting to about 5000 tons, has been washed back along the side of the jetty. The heavy rails for several hundred feet are twisted into a mass resembling gnarled wire.

Telephone lines throughout the county are reported in more or less demoralized condition. Several vessels tonight were brought to the bay adding to the damage and inside there was a small fleet awaiting a chance to get out.

Two Americans on Vatican List for Cardinals.

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS)
ROME, Dec. 7.—According to authoritative sources in the Vatican it is considered probable that Archbishop Mundell of Chicago and Hayes of New York will be elevated to the cardinalate at a consistory to be held before Easter, together with several Spaniards and perhaps one South American prelate.

It is certain, according to the same authorities that no foreign cardinal will be created at the forthcoming consistory on December 20. Although assurance as to who will receive the red hat was lacking in view of the reserve maintained by the Pope, it is assumed that the only cardinal created will be Evaristo Luella, auditor to the Pope and Minister Turillo Gail, director of the Vatican museum.

Trucks rumbled through the streets of Mexico City last night carrying supplies and ammunition, while small bodies of troops were stationed throughout the city to avoid any disturbance by disgruntled political factions.

Mexico City is calm and business is proceeding as usual. Americans and other foreigners are unmolested. The American principal concern being that railway lines to the north may be shut, thus preventing home trips for the Christmas season.

OFFICIALS CONFIDENT.—MEXICO CITY, Dec. 7.—The government's campaign to crush the rebellion of Gen. Guadalupe Sanchez, military commander in the State of Vera Cruz, is being carried out smoothly, Secretary of War Gen. Francisco Serrano announced today.

As an addition to the government forces, he said, four scouting and four bombing airplanes were being sent to the scene of operations after being withdrawn from Puebla de la India in the State of Guerrero, where Gen. Remulo Figueroa has ceased his revolt against the State government.

The War Secretary admitted that there apparently was truth in the reports that Capt. Hiram Moleto, commanding the several gunboats of the Gulf squadron and Cal. Calcano, commanding the marines at Vera Cruz, had joined the rebellion. He said, however, that he would not confirm the reports officially.

CENSORSHIP IMPOSED.—(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
JUAZUE (Mex.) Dec. 7.—Control of communications by the Obregon and Calles factions effectively clamped the lid upon news of the de la Huerta revolt in the south today.

The War Secretary admitted that there apparently was truth in the reports that Capt. Hiram Moleto, commanding the several gunboats of the Gulf squadron and Cal. Calcano, commanding the marines at Vera Cruz, had joined the rebellion. He said, however, that he would not confirm the reports officially.

SANCHEZ MAKES CLAIMS.—(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
VERA CRUZ, Dec. 7.—Gen. Guadalupe Sanchez, leader of the rebellion against the government of President Obregon, in a message sent today to all the chiefs of military operations in Mexico, announced that "21,000 men, 238 machine guns, four batteries of artillery and all warships in the Gulf of Mexico and last, but not least, the powers of public opinion and the backing of the Huertista movement against the Obregon government and Gen. Calles."

Gen. Sanchez then makes a plea to the country inviting the people to join the movement in order to avoid bloodshed. The troops Bravo called today for Tuxpan with troops under orders of the rebel leaders. Up to noon today no news had been received as to the state of affairs in Mexico City and nothing is known as to whether President Obregon already has moved troops against Gen. Sanchez. Thus far there has been no abnormal occurrence either at Vera Cruz or the advanced posts held by the rebel troops.

NOT TO AFFECT RELATIONS.—(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Although officials were unable to appraise fully the extent of the revolutionary movement in Mexico, it is believed here the rising will not affect plans for ratification of the two claims conventions negotiated with the Obregon government as the basis of restoring diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico. The conventions are expected to be placed before the Senate by President Coolidge soon with the request that ratification be expedited.

Reports on the outbreak received at the State Department today gave about the same view of the revolutionary movement as contained in press advices. Private advices received here reported that many of the former military leaders of Mexico were proceeding on one side or the other.

One message said that Gen. Francisco Urbalejo, who was sent to Vera Cruz by Gen. Guadalupe Sanchez, had joined with Figueroa and that Gen. Hipolito Villa was reported to have revolted at Canutillo. Another uprising headed by Gen. Augustine Castro was reported at Durango and it was said Gen. Anselmo Gonzales had been joined at San Pedro by Gen. Emilio Madero.

Avardo has begun military operations. CHIHUAHUA QUIET (EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH) EL PASO, Dec. 7.—Northern Chihuahua is reported to be absolutely quiet so far as can be learned here. Mexican customs guards in Juarez today denied claims of the Vera Cruz revolutionaries that Obregon's Chihuahua, opposite Presidio, Tex., has revolted.

Gen. Roman Lopez, commander of the Juarez garrison, is friendly to Gen. Plutarco Calles, President Obregon's candidate for the Presidency. He stated that Gen. Eusebio Martinez, commander of the Northern Mexico military zone, would arrive here today "on an inspection trip."

PELAEZ LEAVES CITY.—Gen. Manuel Pelaez, it was learned yesterday, has slipped out of Los Angeles and probably new in Vera Cruz or on a ship out of New Orleans bound for that port. He left here two weeks ago, long before the outbreak of the uprising in Vera Cruz against the Obregon government.

Gen. Pelaez in the Carranza regime was a prominent public figure in Vera Cruz, retaining a sort of independent power similar to that of Castro in Lower California. When Gen. Obregon took over the government, Gen. Pelaez had no difficulty with him, but soon after left and came to Vera Cruz on personal business.

There are two other one-time Mexican governors resident here, Cantu and Jose Maria Mayorga. Both are friendly to Obregon, but Cantu has been in the forefront of the political factions in Mexico they have not made it known.

FEDERAL GOVERNOR TAKEN.—(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH) MEXICO CITY, Dec. 7.—An announcement was made by the office of President Obregon today that Forman Marjarias, Governor of the State of Puebla, revolted and attempted to flee to the State of Vera Cruz with State funds which he intended to turn over to the rebel forces. He was captured by Federal agents and imprisoned.

PRISON TERM FOR KIDNAPERS.—(Continued from First Page) he was inclined to believe the American Legion had aided in various ways in the venture, but that later developments convinced him the Legion had nothing to do with it. He said it was evident from information in his hands that a firm company in the United States had given Griffin financial backing, hoping for exclusive pictures of the Bergdoll capture, and that Griffin was not inspired by patriotic motives, as he had asserted.

Griffin's attorney, Harry H. Griffin, said the testimony it gave into consideration the fact that Bergdoll was held by the Germans because of his anti-German activities. He said that Griffin held that "the people who get rid of Bergdoll are the people who get rid of the German influence in this country."

By order of the court, the man who had been returned to the United States by the German government, was held in custody. Judge Korman said that Bergdoll was a draft evader and that he was a patriot in his plans to return Bergdoll back to the United States. He said that Griffin held that "the people who get rid of Bergdoll are the people who get rid of the German influence in this country."

GRIMM'S MOTIVES, as he had admitted, were not the only ones. He had hoped the court would take into consideration the contempt in which Bergdoll was held by Americans because of his draft evasion and that the court would take into account the fact that Bergdoll had been a man of the highest integrity and that he had been a member of the German army for many years. Bergdoll's attorney,
Herr Grimmer, had hoped the court would take into consideration the fact that Bergdoll had been a man of the highest integrity and that he had been a member of the German army for many years.

FOREIGNERS PROTESTATION
In sentencing Grimmer, who was found guilty on all the charges against him, the court intimated that any proposal for pardon made by counsel for Grimmer would be given serious consideration.

The judge added that the sentence was given to the plea of Grimmer's capture because he was not to be so by patriotism, but from the evidence it appears that Grimmer had been a man of the highest integrity and that he had been a member of the German army for many years.

Beginning Saturday Grimmer will be denied certain privileges allowed by the court since he was arrested in August. He will be compelled to exist on prison food and will not have tobacco. He will be confined in his cell after 5 p.m.
Counsel Grimmer expressed his belief that the court would be lenient in the next few weeks.

AIRSHIP PREY TO AIR CALMS

Quiet Atmosphere Bothers to Rigid Aircraft
Dirigibles Operate Better in Strong Wind
Facts Presented at Talk on Polar Flight

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Winds that blow "up and down the mast," the sailor expression for a dead calm, distress airships like the Shenandoah, the Naval Arctic Air Force was told today by Lieut. J. H. Lawrence, who spoke from his experience both in this country and in England.

Bright sunshine and calm air make the greatest difficulty in handling rigid airships, the officer said. Barring a forty-mile wind is no more strain on the ship than would be a flight at forty miles in still air, a normal speed for the Shenandoah. But when calm prevails, vertical air currents are generated by the unequal heating of the earth's surface below and cause bumpy riding for a rigid airship.

FEASIBILITY EXPERIENCED
Lieut. Lawrence's experiences were drawn on by the board in further examination of the feasibility of using the Shenandoah for the polar flight authorized by the department. He expressed the opinion that the ship to be used in that flight, whether heavier or lighter than air, would meet with no more unfavorable weather conditions during the polar summer period than they had already proved equal to in flights in temperate zones.

The board considered the possibility of establishing an airship base north of the Arctic Circle as the "jump-off" flight. Should the Shenandoah be used, it would be necessary to erect a mooring mast at the point selected.

MIST GOOD MOORING
Lieut. Lawrence called attention to the fact that the great British trans-Atlantic dirigible, R-38, was moored to a mast in England for five months, from January to June, in practically all conditions of weather, including gales and snowstorms, and was operated daily to and from that mooring. She rode out fifty-mile winds at the mast in complete safety, and cast off and returned to her moorings in winds that ranged between thirty and forty miles an hour.

The planning board went over much ground in connection with the real purpose of the expedition, which will be exploration of the unknown territory between Alaska and the Pole, where many experts believe land will be discovered. The board called upon the Weather Bureau for full information on what has been learned by its Alaska stations as to conditions in their vicinity and to the north of them.

PETRIFIED FOREST MAY BE MADE PARK

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
HOLBROOK (Ariz.) Dec. 7.—The Holbrook Chamber of Commerce has started a movement to change the official status of the famous Petrified Forest from a national monument to a national park. It is said that 15,000 tourists cars traversed a part of the forest last season, and that the chalcidony along the highway are disappearing, only the larger pieces remaining. Occasionally 100 pounds or more of the material is carried away in a single auto. It is felt locally that this great natural curiosity should be properly preserved. At present the only oversight is by a single mounted ranger.

POPULATION LEAVES SCHOOL HOUSE FLAT

MIDDLETOWN (N. Y.) Dec. 7.—A short time ago a fine school building was erected at an expense of about $100,000 in the Sterling mine district of Rockland county. Now there are practically no inhabitants in the district. The change is due to the fact that the mines, which furnished the only occupation about the section, have been closed down, and there was a complete exodus of the population.

Loomis of Amherst College. The mammoth, which lived in the mud in the second glacial period, about 50,000 years ago, according to Dr. Loomis.

The election is January 7, 1924.

SANTA FE ASKS RIGHT TO ABANDON BRANCH

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Permission to abandon operations and salvage property on fifty-six miles of railroads, running from Goffs, Cal., to Searchlight, Nev., was sought from the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the Santa Fe Railroad. The line, which is known as the Barnwell branch, was built to serve mining operations in Nevada, which are now worked out, the application said.

RUSSIA BANS GAMBLING IN NEW REGIME

Officials Exile Persons Considered Handicap to Nation's Progress

(BY CARL AND ASSOCIATED PRESS)
MOSCOW, Dec. 7.—Russia has established a pale, not for Jews as in the Czarist regime, but for gamblers, obnoxious speculators and citizens whose usefulness in the upholding of the country is questioned by the officials. Others within the next few days scores of men and their families, barred from living in Moscow, Petrograd or any of the big cities, will start for the provinces, while several dozen will begin the long trek to the Narinsky district of Siberia, the so-called "White Sea," or other distant points of exile.

Recently scores of frequenters of the casinos and many "black horses" speculators were rounded up by the police. Some were sent home, others were notified that they must leave for the provinces within seven days, while others were formally exiled for two and three years.

A Petrograd dispatch announces the closing of "four" gambling houses. "Moscow's will open, but they seem to be on their last legs. It is understood that they must leave for the provinces within seven days, while others were formally exiled for two and three years.

The jury was instructed that it could bring in a verdict of first-degree murder, acquittal, murder in the second degree, voluntary manslaughter, or involuntary manslaughter.

Body of Veteran Screen and Stage Actor Cremated

The body of Herbert Standing, veteran stage and motion-picture actor, who died at his home, 3054 Leeward avenue, the 5th inst., was cremated at Los Angeles Crematorium yesterday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. McCormick of St. Paul's Cathedral at W. A. Brown Temple.

The death of the actor, who was 77 years of age, and who had been a resident here for twelve years, was not unexpected as he had been failing in health for several months. His last illness was of five weeks' duration.

ROBBERY CONFESSION RESULTS IN ARREST

LOS ANGELES POLICE CAUSE CAPTURE OF SUSPECT IN KANSAS CITY

The story told by Grant Hartnell, arrested in Kansas City, of complicity in bank robberies and other crimes in Los Angeles led to the arrest in Kansas City yesterday of Fletcher A. Elalock, 22 years of age, known as Seattle Slim, according to a telegram received last night by the police.

Elalock was mentioned in Hartnell's confession, it was said, and the local police, checking up on the story, learned that he had left for Kansas City the 2nd inst. They wired that fact to the Missouri authorities who picked Elalock up on his arrival. He will be held for investigation.

The police here have not yet decided what credence to place in Hartnell's story.

SEQUOIA PARK'S BUDGET HIGHER

Increase of $16,700 Given Recommendation
Many Receive Treatment at Tulare Clinic
Orange Thefts Reported by Porterville Growers

THREE RIVERS, Dec. 7.—Word has been received that the National Park Budget to be submitted to Congress on Monday calls for an appropriation of $136,700 for the Sequoia National Park, an increase of $16,700 over that made available for the present fiscal year. Of this amount $81,350 is for physical improvements and $40,000 of that may be used for the completion and widening of the General Highway or Middle Park. A total of $29,500 is recommended for a sewer system in Giant Forest.

Gen. Grant Park, however, is not allotted as much money and will get only $1,175 if the budget goes through. This cut was made possible because the last year's appropriation of $50,000 included money for needed improvements which will not be necessary during the coming year.

EVIDENCE ON MONEY
VISALIA, Dec. 7.—Evidence in the case of A. Garibay, a laborer living near Visalia, charged with illegal possession of intoxicating liquors, was introduced in a most novel manner.

Garibay pleaded "not guilty" and was sent away, only to return with his wife shortly and change the plea to "guilty." The better-half proceeded to unroll some greenbacks with which to pay the fine. Upon close examination Judge Clark found the "evidence" in the form of grape seeds and a peculiar odor emanating from the bills. Even the clerk observed the sticky condition of the money and the odor coming from it.

CLINIC BENEFITS
More than 3000 children and adults from every school district in Tulare county have been given free treatment and defects have been remedied through the Tulare County Free Birth Clinic in Visalia since its organization, according to John H. Turner, executive secretary of the Tulare county Tubercular Association, which has charge of the clinic.

This work has been well divided among all sections of the county, though at first attendance from Visalia was larger than other districts. The institution has been described as one of the most efficient and beneficial in the San Joaquin Valley.

TREATY ON WATERWAY ADVOCATED

United States Urges Pact With Canada on Route From Great Lakes

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Inquiries have again been made by the United States government of Canada as to the possible negotiation of a treaty which would permit construction of a deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic by way of the Saint Lawrence River.

Announcement of the forwarding of the inquiries was made today at the White House in explanation of the statement made by President Coolidge yesterday in his message to Congress that efforts were being made to obtain a treaty with Canada which would make possible "the development of the great power and navigation project of the St. Lawrence River."

The project was given the President's endorsement.

Inquiry was made of the Canadian government about a year ago as to its position with regard to such a treaty and the response received was that Premier King and his government did not regard it practical to sanction the project at that time. The response was not interpreted in Washington as definitely closing the door to negotiations.

ROAD PLANS FOR YEAR REVEALED

Highway Engineer of State Arranges Program

Widening and Thickening of Roads Large Item

Millions From Gasoline Tax Swell Funds

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
SACRAMENTO, Dec. 7.—Construction work at the estimated cost of approximately $5,000,000 for widening and thickening existing paved State highways is included in the program of the State Highway Commission for the next few months, according to a statement issued here today from the office of R. M. Morton, State highway engineer.

Plans and specifications for a large part of the work, and in some instances bids already have been called for.

The expenditure will be made from funds derived from the State's share of the new gasoline tax and motor vehicle license fees.

The expenditure of the $5,000,000, Morton's statement says, is in addition to other work contemplated and to be paid for from the State highway bond funds.

SOUTH AIDED

While it is impossible, according to Morton, to make a definite statement at this time regarding the location of all of the rebuilding work under consideration, the contracts to be advertised will include paving of some nine miles south of Sacramento on the Stockton road; paving south of Stockton in the Manteca district; rebuilding of the highway between Oceanside and San Diego; rebuilding of the Fresno highway in Ventura county; widening of the highway in the Calabasas section of Los Angeles county; widening and grading of the Pacific highway north of Redding, in Shasta and Siskiyou counties.

Other similar work will be undertaken where the need appears most urgent because of traffic conditions and the necessity for saving old pavements from destruction.

It is estimated that the State's share of the gasoline tax and the motor vehicle fees will be at least $7,500,000 for 1924, which is 50 per cent in excess of present revenues for maintenance and reconstruction. The commission will receive its first allotment from the gasoline tax in May, 1924.

The work in contemplation includes paving of 9.5 miles of the highway immediately north of Redding; grading of a number of units of the Truckee River route between Auburn and the Nevada State line; work on the Redwood highway north of Eureka to make a connection with the Oregon State Highway to Grants Pass, and connections with Yuma, Ariz., in Southern California.

The latter work is primary construction and will be paid for from bond funds.

GOSSIP IN WASHINGTON

Son of Man Knifed by Lincoln's Slayer in Congress; Greek Commune Shows Gratitude for American Aid; First Albanian Consul Will Act as Minister

BY THE OBSERVER

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

(Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—When Henry R. Rathbone, Representative-elect from Illinois, took his seat in the Sixty-eighth Congress, he came back to the scenes of his youth. Representative Rathbone was born in Washington in a house on Jackson Place facing Lafayette Square in full view of the White House. His father, Gen. Henry R. Rathbone, a friend of Lincoln and Grant, sat in the box at Ford's Theater on the night Lincoln was shot. The elder Rathbone received a serious knife wound as he grappled with John Wilkes Booth as the assassin fought his way to the edge of the Presidential box and leaped to the stage. Despite the wound, Gen. Rathbone helped to carry the stricken President to the house across the street where the President died.

The grandfather of the present Congressman, Senator Ira Harris of New York, also was prominent in the political affairs of the capital before the Civil War.

A powerful navigation light, giving out a beam of approximately 1,147,000 candlepower, has been completed in Birmingham, Eng., and will be set up on Eclipse Island, on the coast of Western Australia, says an official dispatch received here. Erected on a tower 385 feet high, it is estimated its light will be visible thirty miles.

The dispatch reminded army people of a story told about Gen. Harbord. It is related that while visiting a club in Manila on one occasion, the lure of an evening invited him into the garden. While there he heard a splashing in the fountain. Curious to discover the cause of it, he struck a match. As the light flared forth, an Englishman, who was standing in the commune of Hermoupolis, Greece, has named one of its streets in honor of the United States. The municipal council, according to the official Greek report, with the Mayor, Epameinondas Pappadakis, presiding, decided that, in token of gratitude toward the American people for their work in behalf of Greek refugees in Asia Minor, the street leading to the orphan asylum established in that city by American philanthropic organizations, be named United States of America street.

The orphan asylum was founded for the shelter, nourishment and education of Greek refugee orphan children of Asia Minor.

Abdul Sula, graduate of Robert College in Constantinople and of the American University in Washington, has arrived here in the capacity of first Albanian Consul in the United States. For the time being he will have charge of all Albania's interests in this country, as that young nation has no Minister in Washington. He will reside in New York.

Today that his government is for the open door in respect to the economic development of Albania. It had been expected for political considerations, that Great Britain would be given important concessions, including that for petroleum, but the national Parliament had indicated that the exploitation should be open to competition and the awards be given to those individuals or companies of whatever nationality, offering the best terms to Albania.

The Standard Oil and the Sinclair interests have been investigating opportunities in Albania and earnest negotiations are looked for in the near future.

The Austrian budget estimates for 1924 show a decrease in the deficit of 45 per cent as compared with estimates for 1923, says a dispatch from Trade Commissioner W. Ford Upson at Vienna.

The budget expenditures have been placed at $1,150,000,000 crowns, while receipts total $1,345,000,000, thus leaving a deficit of $27,000,000 crowns.

Unemployment in Austria continues the decline which it has maintained since the beginning of the year, being now at a new low level. Savings deposits continue to rise.

Plans have been completed for the erection of 25,000 houses in the next five years in Vienna, the program calling for 400,000,000 crowns a year, figuring on the basis of $5,000,000 crowns as the cost of one house. The building project is designed to relieve the housing shortage.

Luther Becker, chief of the iron and steel division of the Commerce Department, has advised American manufacturers to prepare sales campaigns for active Japanese demands under the permanent reconstruction plans for the temblor-devastated areas.

Buying of materials and engineering equipment under the permanent reconstruction plan will start early next year, and he urges American manufacturers to prepare their plans now. Precautionary preparations are urged in view of keen competition, especially British and German, Mr. Becker says.

"American manufacturers are strongly entrenched in the minds of the Japanese trader and consumer public because of the good will established during the war when their products for the first time gained wide recognition and approval. Our modern steel and ferro-concrete buildings proved their worth when they came through unscathed in the recent catastrophe at Tokyo, and to the Japanese people will stand as monuments to the fame of American practice and quality."

The Japanese Diet in its December session is expected to approve the permanent reconstruction plans devised by a special governmental board.

NORWEGIAN PREMIER SCORES PROHIBITION

SAYS COUNTRY JUST AS WET AND LAW RESPECT LOST

(BY CARL EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
CHRISTIANIA, Dec. 7.—Prohibition in Norway was condemned in strong terms by the Norwegian Prime Minister speaking here yesterday. Prohibition has serious evil effects on the Norse people, he declared. Drunkenness today is as great as before prohibition was introduced, while the people's respect for law and justice has been weakened.

About $450,000 is spent yearly in enforcing the prohibition law without success, while if prohibition were abolished the state would receive more than $4,500,000 income.

"My opinion is that abolition of prohibition is a necessity if we are to avoid greater calamities," stated the Premier.

The humble Mexican track laborer when he learns that his wife is the potential beneficiary of $500 insurance policy which has cost him nothing is much surprised.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Washington has the permission of the Pacific Coast Conference to meet the Navy football team at Pasadena New Year's Day if the contract for the game is made directly between the two institutions and the handling and control of the game is also in the hands of the institutions.

This was the decision reached by the delegates of the conference, sitting in their seminar at the Berkeley after a day's debate.

Immediately after the meeting with Melness, graduate manager of the University of Washington, announced that he will meet with the Navy representatives Monday afternoon with a view to arranging the entire game between the two institutions.

COMMITTEE WILLING

to Henry of the Tournament House, who made the selection of the teams and who extended the invitation, stated last night that the committee is entirely willing that the conference take over management of the affair.

Agreement meets with the approval of the Navy, as it probably of Pasadena will witness one of the most colorful sights in the history of Pacific Coast football.

The entire fleet is scheduled to be on hand for the game.

That now seems clear enough, Melness is bound by the rules of the conference to obey its decision to hazard an answer as to which way action would be taken.

THE RESOLUTION of the Pacific Coast Conference in their decision in the following terms:

Resolved, that the Pacific Coast Conference approve of a game between the United States Naval Academy and the University of Washington on Page 2, Column 3.

The banquet will be held at the Alexandria hotel and amateur guests of the tournament will be present at the affair.

Although it was expected that the association would take some action regarding the limitation of amateur players in the State open tournament, it was found that the association would not do so.

BRIGHT FUTURE IN ALASKA SEEN

Gov. Bone Says Harding's
Trip is Asset

Report Pleads for Better
Government

Share in Pribilof Islands
Requested

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Nineteen twenty-three probably will stand out in Alaskan history as the most notable year in territorial history, Gov. Scott C. Bone declared in his annual report published today.

Not only was development pushed at unprecedented speed, he said, with record production of wealth from various activities, but there was a hitherto unknown success in "making known Uncle Sam's" last remaining frontier and concentrating general attention upon it.

Gov. Bone listed President Harding's visit and those of preceding and accompanying delegations of Congressmen and press representatives as among the assets of incalculable value which had been added to the Territory during the year. The report recorded the belief that the current year would mark the turning point of Alaska's long wait for national and international appreciation of her potential wealth.

FUNDS ARE ASKED
Recommendations made in his report for 1922 were renewed by Gov. Bone, among them being: The placing of the affairs of Alaska under one department head at Washington and the substitution of a co-ordinated and centralized system of administration for the present inefficient bureaucratic system at the earliest possible date.

An appropriation of $800,000 to supplement the fund of $150,000 heretofore authorized for the erection of a capitol or administrative building to house Federal and Territorial offices and thus facilitate the transaction of business and save the rentals of scattered quarters.

Adequate provision for the operation and upkeep of the Alaska Railroad, and for the building of branch lines and spurs as required for the development of tonnage and to meet industrial needs.

An appropriation of $1,500,000 annually for the building of roads and trails in the interior and provision for the construction of roads and trails into Mount McKinley and Mount Katmai Parks.

The vesting in the Department of Commerce of complete authority over the fisheries of Alaska, with its Bureau of Fisheries adequately equipped and empowered to make and enforce rules and regulations limiting the catch and number of traps, curtailing fishing areas and closing streams and reducing cannery waste in the public good.

TOURISTS SOUGHT

board, making regular trips in the summer season, through the inside passage and westward to the southern terminus of the Alaska Railroad, thus permitting tourists to see Alaska.

The consolidation of all law-enforcing agencies in Alaska under the Department of Justice. A colonization plan to be operative in connection with the Alaska Railroad with priority rights to lands freely granted to Alaska soldiers of the World War and their dependents.

Allocation of a fair percentage, at least one-half of the net revenues derived from the Pribilof Islands, which are in Alaskan waters, to the general fund of the Territory.

"Owing to the dimensions of the Territory and its divergent interests," the report said, "enough like unanimity of views as to the Territory's needs is still wanting. But, whatever the differences of individual and group opinion, a consensus of faith in Alaska today abounds."

TRAPPER PULLS TEETH IN FIGHT WITH DISEASE

ESTATE OF FURS REVEALS
TERRIBLE PLIGHT OF MAN
IN NORTH CABIN

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Fritjof George Carlsen, fur trapper, in a desolate little outpost in the Arctic Circle, became desperately sick after having collected a small fortune in furs, pulled out all of his own teeth in his own bound cabin in a vain effort to check the disease and finally died in San Francisco after amputating his leg which had become infected. It became known here yesterday.

Carlsen died before he could realize on his furs, and the whole story was told to the probate department of the Superior Court by his friend, Capt. C. D. Pederson, master of the motorship Ojalla Fjord, and executor of the estate.

When found by another trapper Carlsen was near death from sickness and starvation, lying on a bed of skins. He had pulled out his teeth by attaching a cord to a raft of the cabin, placing the other end around his tooth and then jumping from a box, Capt. Pederson said.

The fur catch brought in $11,000 to the estate.

FASHION HIT BY KANSAS CITY PASTOR

CHANGES TO SUIT CUSTOM ARE FOOLISH AND ABSURD
HE SAYS

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 7.—It is a far cry from Mother Eve turning over a new fig leaf at the first of every year to the modern bob-haired girl dressing two or three times a day in the latest vogue from Paris, asserted Rev. Roy Rutherford at the First Christian Church.

"There is no more interesting study than to follow the vagaries of fashion from the early days to the present day," he said.

"In the early days fashions were set by royalty. A bald king made wig popular.

"We laugh at barbarism, yet will allow a beauty specialist to pluck out our eyebrows in order to be fashionable.

"Today the skirt is so long you step on it. Yesterday it was so short you couldn't sit on it. The waist line varies so a man scarcely can tell whether he ought to embrace the waist or the neck.

"How absurd is foolish custom!"

RELIABLE HELP

"Salesmanagers... have compiled figures showing that it costs from $200 to $1000 to break in new salesmen, and have grasped at nearly every straw that offered some hope of solving this eternal question."

—SALES MANAGEMENT for September 1923

While the "breaking in" cost varies with different kinds of business there is scarcely any occupation so simple but what a new employee entails a certain amount of loss to his employer—an item which, in case of large concerns, reaches into thousands of dollars per year.

In order to reduce this item to the minimum, sales managers find that it pays to exercise care in selecting new employees. They know that the shiftless and indifferent take longer to train and seldom stay on the job a sufficient length of time to justify their employment.

Because the average man and woman secured through the Los Angeles Times has proved to be a more reliable employee—steady, efficient and capable—the business firms of Southern California fill their positions through the "Help Wanted" columns of The Times—a simple, sure method of reducing labor turnover.

Suspect Involved in Return of "Little Phil"

High finance involving two loans and three automobiles yesterday kept Mrs. Kathryn Uribe, alias Mrs. Francis Winters, alias Mrs. G. B. Morgan, in the City Jail on a charge of grand larceny by trick and device and may result in several other charges being placed against her.

Mrs. Uribe, who was booked at Central Police Station Thursday afternoon, came before the public a number of months ago when she was credited with having obtained the return from Mexico of "Little Phil" Alguin, Mexican bandit and murderer, who shot down and killed Police Detective Lieutenant John Fitzgerald. Alguin after his return was sentenced to life imprisonment.

TRACED FOR WEEKS

The arrest of Mrs. Uribe came Thursday after detection from the Automobile Club and the police department had traced her operations for weeks. The arrest was made on the request of the San Diego police, in which city the warrant was secured by a San Diego automobile dealer. Unless other charges are placed against the woman here she will be removed to the southern city for trial.

Detective Lieutenant Walter Wood of the Automobile Club and police detectives who made the arrest yesterday stated that Mrs. Uribe first purchased an automobile in this city and after securing a loan on the machine drove it to Arizona where she traded it for another car. From Arizona she is charged with having taken the automobile to San Diego and here floated another loan. She is then charged with having taken the automobile to San Diego and here floated another loan. She is then charged with having taken the automobile to San Diego and here floated another loan.

After her arrest Thursday Mrs. Uribe refused to see any newspaper men and refused to make any statements. Yesterday afternoon, however, she told Detective Wood that she had not intended to do any wrong when she secured the loans on her automobiles, but simply did not understand the law. She said that she would fight the case against her and would enter a plea of not guilty to the charges on which she is held.

According to the arresting officers, a Federal warrant charging Mrs. Uribe with having jumped bail in the case of "Little Phil" in St. Louis is in the hands of the Federal authorities here and may be served on her today. They also declared that the San Francisco police may have charges to bring against her.

ARRESTED LAST FALL

Mrs. Uribe was first arrested here last fall with her husband and charged with grand larceny in connection with the theft of an automobile. At the time it was learned that she was at liberty under bail on a charge in St. Louis, also involving an automobile. It was while in jail here at that time that Mrs. Uribe entered into a plan with Louis Oake, then chief of Police, to secure the return by the Mexican government of "Little Phil" and she was released and sent into Mexico. After the Mexican bandit had been delivered to American authorities the case against the woman was dropped.

Up to Thursday, when she was taken into custody under the name of Morgan, Mrs. Uribe had not been heard of by authorities here since the Alguin affair. When she was in jail here before the return of "Little Phil," she was a member of Ziegfeld's Follies and had appeared in the Winter Garden in New York City.

FILM INDUSTRY AT CRISIS

Marcus Loew, Here on Visit, Says Picture Producers
Must Reorganize to End Waste at Studios

A program of efficiency and the elimination of waste is the only remedy for the slump in the motion-picture industry seen by Marcus Loew of New York, head of the Metro Pictures Corporation and owner of a string of vaudeville and motion-picture theaters so long that Mr. Loew admitted he did not know their exact number.

Mr. Loew, who is here to look after his interests with the Metro, is a guest at the Biltmore. He is accompanied by J. Robert Rubin, counsel for the Loew interests, and was met upon his arrival here yesterday afternoon by a group of luminaries of the motion-picture world, including Jackie Coogan, Renee Adoree, Reginald Barker, Louis B. Mayer, Fred Niblo and Irving Thalberg.

"The motion-picture industry today is in the position of doing a greater business than ever before in its history and yet making no money for those engaged in it," said Mr. Loew. "The exhibitors are at the end of their rope and as the producers depend upon the exhibitors for their revenue, they are both in the same boat. A series of changes in operation will have to be inaugurated, principally along the line of effecting a greater saving in production costs."

Mr. Loew does not favor an increase of prices at the box office. "Experience has taught that such a procedure will not solve the problem," he said.

NEED GOOD STORIES

Speaking of the class of stories in demand by the pictures today, Mr. Loew stated that the general trend is toward a higher type of both story and presentation. "But after all, this matter is largely a gamble. With all our experience we are as much in the dark as ever whether a particular picture will become popular. We have had in a sense a picture where pictures we thought would make only a moderate success have become the hit of the season."

"And it makes no difference what story appears in a picture if the story isn't there. The public will have none of it. The star's name is useful to attract attention, but if the story is good it will probably go big; otherwise it will fail. And a good story will make a success with no star at all, if the actors are reasonably able and it can be sufficiently well advertised."

Questioned as to the truth of rumors that have been circulated to the effect that the motion-picture industry may move from Hollywood owing to the too rigorous enforcement of the so-called blue laws, Mr. Loew said he was not aware that any such move was on foot.

DOUBTS REMOVAL

"It would be folly to move because the authorities are enforcing the law," he said. "The law should be enforced so long as it is the law, and if it isn't a good law it should be repealed. I am not particularly familiar with the controversy which I understand exists here in Los Angeles, having heard of it only on the train, but so far as I know there are no plans for an exodus of the picture industry to New York or anywhere else."

In this connection the producer said that while the motion-picture business had been an asset to Los Angeles in that it had furnished more advertising than any other enterprise, he felt that there had never been a death of reciprocity on the part of the city.

"In my opinion, the people of Los Angeles have always been appreciative of what the industry has done for them and we have never failed to receive due cooperation from the city in our undertakings."

BACKS HIGH PAY

Nor does he believe it will be necessary to reduce the salaries of performers. "We hear much about the fabulous amounts paid stars," he observed, "but in my opinion the stars are worth every cent they get. Their names are the greatest drawing cards in the industry. A policy of retrenchment affecting the pay of the actors would, in my opinion, be no more successful than increasing advertising costs."

"But where the producers can retrench is in such things as sets, a better supervision of their stories for filming and the elimination of spectacular features. Experience has shown that after all, the story is the thing that appeals to the public, and if the story is good it can be presented without many of the high-priced frills that were at one time thought necessary to its success."

"The waste involved in production methods that have been in vogue up to this time is astounding. It has been largely the result of the frenzied attempt of each producer to outdo the other in turning out spectacular pictures. The elaborate sets costing from $40,000 to $50,000 have been built and have never been used. It will be necessary to get away from this policy and to plan the pictures so carefully."

JACK ELRICH IS ARRESTED

Prisoner Held in Pasadena Jail; Believed to be Charged as Wilson Gang Member

Jack Elrich, well known along Spring street, was arrested on a Federal charge late Thursday night in a prominent downtown hotel where he has been living, and taken to the City Jail in Pasadena, where he was held incommunicado last night. His arrest became known yesterday when Attorney Charles Lyons telephoned U. S. Atty. Burke, protesting the order against visitors.

It is believed that Elrich was arrested on a warrant issued in connection with the indictment of twenty-one men, asserted to have had a hand in the distribution of the mail hold-ups of plunder taken in mail holds-up by the Herb Wilson gang.

ORDER REMAINS

Asst. U. S. Atty.-Gen. Cahill, who had charge of the presentation of the evidence against the asserted fence, declared last night that he had had no official notification of Elrich's arrest, but that when the request of Attorney Lyons was referred to him he declined to countermand the order.

Elrich, who has been identified for years with the sporting fraternity of Los Angeles, was placed under arrest by Inspector George Cellar and Investigator Charles Reimer of the District Attorney's office. He dropped out of sight several months ago, following the indictments, but his trail was picked up by the officers several days ago.

When the wholesale indictments were returned by the Federal grand jury after months of investigation by the mail hold-up gang, Elrich committed two mail robberies in Los Angeles during 1921, in which approximately $2,000,000 in securities was stolen.

The indictments refer specifically to the robbery of March 2, the loot from which was spread all over the United States. Several Los Angeles men were named as having helped peddle the securities, only one of whom in addition to Elrich, however, has been arrested. Frank Wilson, brother of the bandit, was arrested a month ago in Battle Creek, Mich., where he had been working at his trade as a baker.

Wilson, regarded as the foremost mail bandit of the country, led a spectacular life until last June, when he was taken to San Quentin penitentiary to serve a life term after having been convicted of the murder of his erstwhile pal, Herbert Cox. Wilson's depositions extended from New York City to the Pacific Coast, from 1918 to December, 1921, when he was arrested with Cox.

During an attempt to escape from the County Jail here in April, 1922, Cox was shot, and Wilson was tried and convicted. While waiting an appeal he escaped from the jail in October, 1922, in company with Adam Ward, "The Stranger," and Guido Spingola, "The Mouse."

All three were recaptured the next day in the home of Tom Garwood, safe-cracker, since killed.

In the spring of 1922 Wilson confessed to authorities his entire activities, which resulted in a cleaning out of the jail by Sheriff Traeger and the removal of several official heads.

POLITICS MAR CLUB REPORT

Omission of Former President's Record Laid to Her
Reference to Questioning Hiram

BY ALMA WHITAKER

When the Woman's City Club Year Book came out this week I devoured it avidly. I was immediately struck by the fact that it entirely omits to print the former president's annual report. I couldn't find it anywhere. So I hastened to Mrs. W. P. Cunningham to discover why she had not made an official report of so exciting an administration as her own.

She assured me that she had. That she considered it a very good report. That she presumed it had been left out by inadvertence. She showed me a copy of it. Among other things it contained the following as part of the president's account of the club's work for the year:

"ACTIVITIES ATTRACT

"Many of our activities have had State-wide press comment, and have been national and five activities that we know of have had international press and editorial comment."

"Insistence on the right of citizenship to question a candidate as to how he will stand on issues in which, if elected, he must represent them."

"Will, that's the one that caught my hectic eye. I can't help feeling that that might have had a little to do with it."

Because it refers to a distressing episode in which Mrs. Cunningham herself, as president of the Woman's City Club, arose in the audience at a Hiram Johnson meeting and craved the privilege of a question as to the Senator's views on the subject of prohibition. And Hiram Johnson had been with the vehement declaration that no one was permitted to question him. He was quite disturbingly rude both

FOREIGN DEBT OF NATION CUT

Mellon's Report Discloses Great Reduction

Treasurer Urges Increased Tax Lowering

Country's Obligations Show Huge Decrease

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Secretary Mellon, in his annual report transmitted to Congress today, described Treasury operations under which the nation's foreign debt had been reduced $13,474,343 in the fiscal year 1923, and again urged a sharp reduction in taxation based on rigid economy and having "authorizations for new and unexpected expenditures." The report contained a copy of Mr. Mellon's letter to Acting Chairman Green of the House Ways and Means Committee in which the Secretary said "a soldier's bonus would postpone tax reduction not for one but for many years to come."

To the usual review of official activities under his direction, Mr. Mellon attached additional argument for the general reduction in income taxes which he has urged. He particularly stressed the advantage which he has predicted would come from cutting the surtax rates upon large incomes to a minimum of 25 per cent, on the ground that it would actually increase the government's income, as well as indirectly benefit the public at large by reducing burdens on productive operations.

SURPLUS GROWS

The government, "firmly established on the basis of balancing its budget each year," Mr. Mellon said, brought the national debt, once at a figure of over $28,000,000,000, down to a total of $23,082,000,000 on October 21. The record, he said, was one brought about "only by the most rigid economy and the application of business principles to the government's finance." On the present basis of taxation and expenditure, he cited an estimated Treasury surplus next July of about $223,000,000, and a possible surplus in the year after of $395,000,000.

"High taxation," the report continued, "even if levied upon an economic basis, affects the prosperity of the country, because in the ultimate analysis the burden of all taxes rests only in part upon the individual or property taxed. It is borne by the ultimate consumer. High taxation means high price level and high cost of living. It can safely be said that reduction in the income tax reduces the cost of living for the 7,000,000 income-tax payers, but of the entire 110,000,000 people of the United States."

INCOMES IN HIDING

As to the reduction in the surtax rates, Mr. Mellon said that the history of taxation throughout the world indicated that "means have always been found by the ingenuity of the citizen to avoid taxes inherently excessive." It was significant, he said, that the large incomes reported for taxation were decreasing in number each year, those over $100,000 being 246 in 1921, as compared to 395 the year before. The estates of the wealthy, he pointed out, were storing into tax-exempt securities. The Treasury actuary, he continued, estimated that the reduction of the surtax to the 25 per cent maximum, against a present maximum ranging up to 50 per cent, would actually increase by 1924 the amounts which the government receives, the lesser rate being more than compensated for by the additional volume of tax paid.

"Mr. Mellon advocated also the reduction of Federal taxation on estates and legacies, on the ground that this tax was taken 'not out of income, but out of capital,' a cumulative confiscatory effect."

BUSINESS BETTER

To general business aspects Mr. Mellon directed the comment that improvement had been noted for a year. Sufficient credit at reasonable rates was being available through banks, and he concluded that present activity presented the appearance of being "sound and stable."

The failure of agricultural sections to share in the betterment, however, was noted.

Federal land banks, the Secretary said, had loaned $14,712,000 during the year on land mortgages. Their total of loans outstanding was placed at $74,762,104, while farm-land associations, through which their business is primarily conducted, had increased in number during the fiscal year from 4933 to 4935.

Taking up the liquor question, Mr. Mellon said that the nation, which formerly had consumed 1,000,000 gallons of whiskey a year, and now in bonded warehouses had 25,000,000 gallons altogether, had withdrawn from the supply during the past year only 1,700,000 gallons. The Treasury's request for $22,000,000 appropriation to increase the Coast Guard, the Secretary said, might assist to "cut down to a minimum the operation of the rum smugglers who seek to replace the vanished home product with the spirits of other lands."

Public building needs in the country at large and in Washington, the report said, required "a carefully considered building program." The postponement of construction because of recent high costs in erecting enterprises could not always be continued, it added, with annual Federal expenditures for rentals amounting to $20,000,000 and crowding construction planning that would eliminate any tendency to distribute buildings on a political basis was urged.

The recently established system of pensions for retirement of Federal civil service employees was described as showing sufficient cash reserve to justify an increase in the rates paid to the dependents. The limiting of retirement benefits to periods over 70, likewise, Mr. Mellon said, was unnecessary, and he advocated lowering it to 65 years.

CITES COOLIDGE CASE

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Dr. James Clement Reed, pastor of the Howard Presbyterian Church, in urging a greater church attendance, today posted the following notice on his bulletin board: "President Coolidge did not wait for a hearse to haul him to church."

DRY VIOLATORS FINED

SAVANNAH (Ga.) Dec. 7.—Judge Barrett, in Federal Court, today sentenced twenty-four defendants convicted on conspiracy and other prohibition charges, to pay fines totaling $150,000 and to serve terms in the Federal penitentiary.

(SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS)
George F. Babbitt, pompous relation of the fast-growing young city of Zenith, and Mrs. Babbitt, his wife, are at once practical and whimsical. He is a hustler and an opportunist of "100 per cent efficiency" as he calls it. He is a man of affairs. He is a man of business. He is a man of power. He is a man of influence. He is a man of money. He is a man of success. He is a man of fame. He is a man of glory. He is a man of honor. He is a man of respect. He is a man of admiration. He is a man of love. He is a man of life. He is a man of death. He is a man of everything.

At the end of the service Babbitt was delighted when the pastor, actively shaking hands at the door, twittered, "Oh, Brother Babbitt, can you wait a jiffy? Want your advice?"

"Sure, doctor! You bet!"

"Drop into my office. I think you'll like the cigars there," Babbitt did like the cigars. He also liked the office, which was distinguished from other offices only in the spirited change of the familiar wall-placard to "This is the Lord's Busy Day." Chum Frink came in, then William W. Hathorne.

Mr. Hathorne was the 70-year-old president of the First State Bank of Zenith. He still wore the delicate patches of side-whiskers which had been the uniform of bankers in 1870. If Babbitt was envious of the Smart Set of the Nickeltown, before William W. Hathorne he was reverent. Mr. Hathorne had nothing to do with the Smart Set. He was above it. He was the great-grandfather of one of the five men who founded Zenith, in 1870, and he was of the third generation of bankers. He could examine credits, make loans, promote or injure a man's business. In his presence Babbitt breathed quickly and felt proud.

The Rev. Dr. Drew bowed into the room and flowered into speech:

"I've asked you gentlemen to stay so I can put a proposition before you. The Sunday-school needs backing up. It's the fourth largest in Zenith, but there's no reason why we should take anybody's dust. We ought to be first. I want to request you, if you will, to form a committee of advice and publicity for the Sunday-school; look it over and make any suggestions for its betterment, and then, perhaps, see that the press gives us some attention—give the public some really helpful and constructive news instead of all these murders and divorces."

"Excellent," said the banker. Babbitt and Frink were enchanted to join him.

If you had asked Babbitt what his religion was, he would have answered in sonorous Episcopate-Club rhetoric, "My religion is to serve my fellow-men, to honor my brother as myself, and to do my bit to make life happier for one and all." If you had pressed him for more detail, he would have announced, "I'm a member of the Presbyterian church, and, naturally, I accept its doctrines." If you had been so brutal as to go on, he would have protested, "There's no use discussing and arguing about religion; it just stirs up bad feeling."

Actually, the content of his theology was that there was a Supreme Being who had tried to make us perfect, but presumably had failed; that if one was a good man he would go to a place called heaven (Babbitt unconsciously pictured it as rather like an excellent hotel with a private garden), but if one was a bad man, that is, if he murdered or committed burglary or used cocaine or had mistresses or sold nonexistent real estate, he would be punished. Babbitt was uncertain, however, about what he called "this business of hell." He explained to Ted, "Of course, I'm pretty liberal. I don't exactly believe in a fire-and-brimstone hell. Stands to reason, though, that a fellow can't get away with all sorts of vice and not get licked for it, see how I mean?"

Upon this theology he rarely pondered. The kernel of his practical religion was that it was respectable, and beneficial to one's business, to be going through the motions of religion. He believed in the church that the church kept the worst elements from being still worse; and that the pastor's sermon, however dull they might seem at the time of taking, yet had a voodooistic power which "did a fellow good"—kept him in touch with higher things.

His first investigations for the Sunday-school Advisory Committee did not inspire him.

He liked the Busy Folks' Bible Class, composed of mature men and women and addressed by the old-school physician, Dr. T. Atkins Jordan, in a sparkling style comparable to that of the more refined humorous after-dinner speakers, but when he went down to the junior classes he was disconcerted. He heard Sheldon Smeeth, educational director of the Y.M.C.A. and leader of the church-choir, a pale but strenuous young man with curly hair and a smile, teaching a class of 16-year-old boys. Smeeth loved to enlighten them. "Now, fellows, I'm going to have a heart-to-heart talk evening at my house next Thursday. We'll get off by ourselves and be frank about our secret worries. You can just tell old Sheldy anything, like all the fellows do at the Y. I'm going to explain frankly about the horrible practices a kid falls into unless he's guided by a Big Brother, and about the perils and glory of sex." Old Sheldy beamed demurely; the boys looked ashamed; and Babbitt didn't know which way to turn his embarrassed eyes.

Less annoying but also much duller were the minor classes which were being instructed in philosophy and Oriental ethnology by earnest spinsters. Most of them met in the highly varnished Sunday-school room, but there was an overflow to the basement, which was decorated with varicose water-pipes and lighted by small windows high up in the ceiling wall. What Babbitt saw, however, was the First Congregational Church at Catawba. He was back in the Sunday-school of his boyhood. He smelled again that polite stuffiness

Watch on Customs

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS)
CANTON, Dec. 7.—Sun Yat Sen, whose threats to seize the customs revenues of the southern provinces nominally controlled by the Canton government, of which he is the head, have caused acute attention to be directed to this section by foreign powers, today issued a statement defining his attitude and attacking the Peking government, which he recognized as the legitimate government of China and the Chihli Military party.

FACTION SCARED
The Peking government, the statement declares, is only a tool of the Chihli faction, which financed its efforts to overthrow Sun and organized the several military invasions of the southern provinces for that purpose. These acts, Sun says, have prevented him from carrying out the reconstruction work on which he decided when he returned to Canton last February. The statement avers the Chihli party will persist in this destructive policy as long as it can be financed from the surplus revenues released to Peking by the foreign powers, which consist of money which would not be available for the Chihli party were the Kwang-tung customs revenue retained for the use of the Kwangtung people instead of being remitted to Peking.

According to the statement, the Canton government undertakes in the event the customs revenues from the rest of China are insufficient to meet these foreign obligations to make good the deficit to the extent of the customs revenue received by it from time to time.

AIDES RESIGN
The reports emanating from Hongkong that marines from foreign warships have taken over the customs house are unfounded. The officers of foreign forces here, which comprise four British, two French, two American, one Portuguese and one Japanese gunboats, are, however, watching the situation carefully.

Conditions along the West River, where forces of Sun Yat Sen, are being opposed by forces of the Peking government, are much unsettled because of reported favoring of the Yunnanese element by Sun. As a result of dissatisfaction with these acts several of Sun's officials, including Hsu Tung Chi, one of the leading generals, have resigned. Hsu Tung Chi is said to have fled to Shanghai.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—That's the fellow, I'd know him anywhere.

A big man with rumpled clothing and a wide smile trudged down a corridor of the Postoffice Building toward Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. Polakoff, pointing excitedly at another man who was hastening from the building of courts and judges.

"I'm O. W. Swicord of Walnut Ridge, Ark.," said the big man to Mr. Polakoff.
"That's the fellow who swindled me out of $21,000 down in Miami, when he got me to bet on a horse that didn't exist in a race that never was run. I got a notice to come to New York to appear as a witness against him and here I am. That's the man. I was trimmed of $21,000, and I'd spend another $21,000 to see him behind the bars."

Swicord had identified R. L. Brooks, alias R. L. Brooks, alias Ray Lambert, who is wanted in Florida and Oklahoma for playing the old wire-tapping game. He is accused of swindling H. M. Snyder, a Columbus (O.) lawyer, of $30,000, besides defrauding Swicord, who is a dentist from the cotton country.

Former Follies
Beauty and Rich
Brewer to Wed

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Allyn King, former Follies beauty, now appearing in a musical comedy at Los Angeles, and Carl Weidemann, wealthy brewer, of Newport, Ky., and owner of In Memoriam, the race horse, are to be married at Christmas. It was reported here from the Pacific Coast city.

The engagement started nine years ago, when Weidemann was a Yale student. Miss King broke off the engagement repeatedly, because she insisted on pursuing a stage career, while her fiancé insisted that she retire to his home after the marriage.

The latest report was that Weidemann, calling her up in New York from his Kentucky home, told her he had finally agreed to her remaining on the stage after marriage.

lasting pleasure

Books appear on the Christmas list of things given and wanted, more than any other article. And each book knows a long list of borrowers. A gift then from our book shelves gives pleasure many times repeated.

Here is a suggestive
List of NEWEST Fiction
with a brief review to guide you in selection.

"The Alaskan," James Oliver Curwood—In the opinion of the author and of critics, his best book. Again the story is of the far reaches of the North—of a girl as beautiful as the dawn of an Alaskan day and a man who is the very spirit of the far North. 2.00.

"Butterfly," Kathleen Norris—Another story by that magnetic story-teller who wrote "The Story of Julia Page." Her name on the cover of a book means to 6,000,000 readers a new joy. 2.00.

"The Desert Healer," E. M. Hull—Dramatic action in this novel of love and passion in the land of "the Sheik," with its mountains, its desolation and its winding caravans. 2.00.

"The Hawk," Herbert Quick—Cross sections of the throbbing life of a new state and a nation built by a pioneer people. Full of lovable characters and vivid scenes. 2.00.

"The White Flag," Gene Stratton Porter—The life of a little Hoosier town—the town of Mrs. Porter's girlhood—is the theme of this story. The one she has always wanted to write. 2.00.

"The Dim Lantern," Temple Bailey—Jane Barnes is one of the loveliest heroines of today's novels. Those who like love stories (and who doesn't?) ought surely to like this book—for it has four running through it! 2.00.

"Doctor Nye," Joseph C. Lincoln—Very different from the novel described just above is this delightful story of a small town, as seen through its author's kindly eyes. Diverging, humorous and—intensely human. 2.00.

"Oliver October," George Barr McCutcheon—An intensely dramatic tale—player in plot full of humor and suspense and mystery. Through the whole story runs the romance of Oliver's love affair with Jane Sage. 2.00.

"Raw Material," Dorothy Canfield—Here once more Dorothy Canfield shows her intimate knowledge of people of many sorts. A group of people, and the events that shaped their destinies are sketched in her exquisite fashion. 2.00.

"Fires of Ambition," George Gibbs—A story of the picturesque world of the fashionable modiste and the life of those who patronize the luxurious shops. An unusual study of life. 2.00.

"Graven Image," Margaret Widdemer—A powerful story of family pride and its effects on the lives of two girls. 2.00.

"The Lengthened Shadow," William J. Locke—All that is best in William Locke is in this most interesting novel. A girl, left to the guardianship of two men, one a man of the world—the other, lame, timid but "pure gold." Both fall in love with her—what happens is the story. 2.00.

"The Mine With the Iron Door," Harold Bell Wright—A "man of mystery," a winsome woman and an amazing series of events make this novel one of Mr. Wright's best. 2.00.

"North of 36," Emerson Hough—The romance of a girl ranch owner who struck north from Texas a thousand miles, with no trails and with perils all along the way. An epic filled with life and love of the men who made the Southwest, by the author of "The Covered Wagon." 2.00.

"Oh, Doctor!" Harry Leon Wilson—Another hit by the man who wrote "Rugles of Red Gap" and "Merton of the Movies." The funniest story of a "go-getter" you ever read. 2.00.

"A Son at the Front," Edith Wharton—A narrative of deepening excitement—a picture of Paris in wartime and characters that are almost as fascinating as the plot itself—all this united with the exquisite style, that is characteristic of this woman's books. 2.00.

"The Temptress," V. Blasso Ibanes—A vivid story by the author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." A thrilling and powerful story. 2.00.

"Tetherstones," Ethel M. Dell—An ever-popular author—and a book that is sure to be so. An appealing love story, and a gripping plot. 2.00.

BIONA HILLS

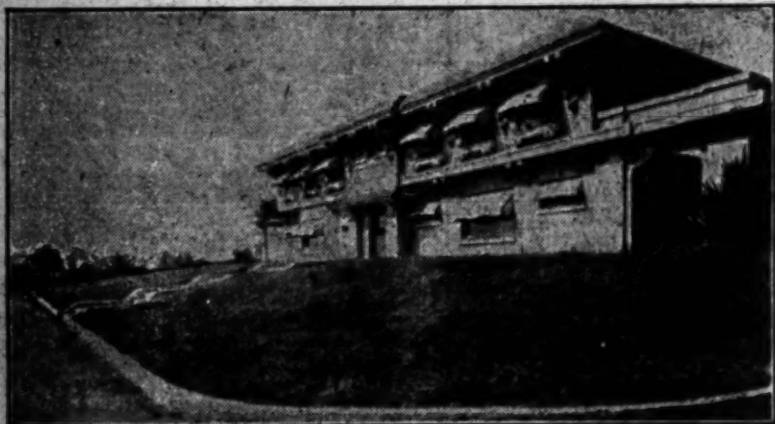

Pre-Opening Reservations Tomorrow Formal Opening With Showing of the Beautiful Westward-Ho Club Wednesday, December 12th

AN INVITATION

This is the invitation to those who are interested in a high class residential property with such social features as are generally offered by a club of exclusive nature, to attend the formal opening of the Biona Hills Tract and the showing of the beautiful Westward-Ho Club House, on next Wednesday.

Biona Hills is essentially a home subdivision for Californians who know the relative merits of location, climatic, social and transportation conditions in the Southland.

It is to these that Biona Hills and the Westward-Ho Club of California make greatest appeal, for those who are conversant with all conditions will the better appreciate the wonders of Biona Hills and the unusual nature of this tract.

The Beautiful Club House of the Westward-Ho Club of California situated on the property of Biona Hills.

AN EXCLUSIVE ENVIRONMENT AN ENVIABLE LOCATION

Biona Hills is designed and destined to be one of the most exclusive districts of permanent homes in Southern California. It has already been called "THE SECOND BEVERLY" and it will without doubt live up to this high standard.

The location is most ideal. At the junction of Sawtelle and Venice Boulevards and in close proximity to Washington Boulevard. Venice Boulevard, when completed, will be the most direct double boulevard from Los Angeles to the sea and will be 180 feet wide. Sawtelle Boulevard extends as an eighty-foot boulevard from the mountains, bounding the Biona Hills property, to the Harbor. It is the only boulevard west of Western avenue that bisects all the main east and west arteries of traffic. Washington Boulevard is the acknowledged chiefly travelled route westerly from Los Angeles.

The transportation facilities enhance the values of the location and environment. The Venice Short Line passes directly in front of the Biona Hills Property and offers ten to twenty-minute weekday service and five to fifteen-minute holiday and Sunday service to Los Angeles and the beaches. The first subway will probably be built on this line and will reduce the time to Los Angeles from the present thirty minutes to about fifteen minutes, and will undoubtedly cause a sharp rise in property values.

The climate of Biona Hills is unexcelled. The proximity of the sea prevents extremes of temperature. Frosts are unknown, allowing of the growing of the more delicate of California's wonderful flowers and plants. It is shielded on the north by the Santa Monica mountains, on the south by the Baldwin Hills and on the west by Sunset Hills, eliminating the high winds, yet allowing the gentle breezes to make an ideal climate.

THE WESTWARD-HO CLUB

The Westward-Ho Club of California has been formed by a committee of members who are conversant with the Westward-Ho Clubs of Chicago and London. The beautiful clubhouse is situated on the Biona Hills property and was chosen on account of its wonderful location and unusual advantages for a social club of exclusive nature. It will enable the home-owners of Biona Hills to cultivate proper social atmosphere and to meet worthwhile associates. The Clubhouse will be open for inspection beginning next Wednesday.

ADVANTAGES AND IMPROVEMENTS

Biona Hills is the establishment of a new community caring for its own social and commercial existence. It is accessible to the entertainments and privileges of Los Angeles, the beach cities, Hollywood and Beverly Hills and offers more diversity of entertainment than is usual in communities of many times its own size.

Water, gas, curbs, sidewalks, finished streets and electricity will be among the improvements offered to home-owners in Biona Hills. A separate district is set aside for business, the future of which seems very bright.

An abundance of good, pure water for domestic, irrigation and all other uses is perpetually assured.

The Sunken Gardens, now in the process of design, will be a marvel to all who see and a source of lasting pleasure as well as an unusual point of interest to the home-owners in Biona Hills and to their friends.

School facilities are unexcelled. Biona Hills is in the Venice High School District, ranking with the best in the entire State. Street car transportation is at hand. All the colleges, military academies and schools for girls located in Los Angeles are but a short half-hour away.

Note the wonderful natural advantages of location of Biona Hills, at the intersection of Sawtelle and Venice Boulevards.

DRIVE TO BIONA HILLS

Drive south on Figueroa street to West Adams. Turn west (right) on West Adams going straight ahead entering Washington Boulevard. Straight west on Washington Boulevard to Goldwyn Studio. Turn north (right) at Goldwyn Studio to Venice Boulevard. Turn west (left) on Venice Boulevard to tract office at northwest corner of Venice and Sawtelle boulevards.

PRE-OPENING RESERVATIONS

While the formal opening of the tract and the reception at the Westward-Ho Clubhouse is announced for next Wednesday, we appreciate the enthusiasm you will display when you come to see this property and have arranged to allow a limited number of pre-opening reservations. It will be a most pleasant and very probably a profitable week-end drive to see Biona Hills and the Westward-Ho Club. Follow the directions above.

Operators in the Santa Fe

Spring oil field are of the opinion that in spite of a somewhat rapid production decline in oil wells, the field will stand up to 200,000 barrels per day or better until some time after the turn of the year.

They base their opinion on the fact that there are now drilling

sixty-three wells which are past the 4000-foot mark. Most of these wells are located in areas where new production has been good, and it is expected they will offset the decline for some weeks to come.

The General Petroleum Corporation has five wells which are now

4400 feet deep, or deeper. They include Santa Fe No. 1, which down

779 feet and cemented Santa Fe

No. 11 cemented at 4660 feet; No.

8 in oil sand at 4700 feet; J.A.L.K.

No. 4 laying pipe at 4520 feet, and

No. 9 is fishing at 4400 feet.

The Petroleum Midway Company has five wells below 4400 feet. They are the Materns No. 1-5, drilling

in sandy shale at 4400 feet; No. 1

drilling in hard sand at 4430 feet;

No. 2 rebuilding rig at 4470 feet;

Steinly No. 3 drilling in sandy shale at 4400 feet; and Wickman No. 4 in tough shale at 4400 feet. The total daily field production of the

Petroleum Midway amounts to 19,000 barrels a day.

The Shell Company has eight wells down to a depth where production should soon be reached.

They are G.H.N. No. 8, drilling at 4400 feet; and Wickman No. 4

drilling in hard sand at 4430 feet;

Thompson No. 3, in shale at 4500 feet and drilling No. 4 in shale and drilling at 4410 feet. It is asserted that the Shell production is 10,000 barrels daily.

Twelve wells being drilled by the Standard Oil Company are below

4400 feet. They are the Santa

Gertrude No. 6, drilling in hard sand at 4400 feet; Watson No. 1, ripping at 4400 feet; Pacific Gas

Products No. 2, cemented at 4532 feet; W. L. Houghton drilling

in sandy shale at 4400 feet; No. 14

drilling in shale at 4510 feet; No. 1

in oil sand at 4400 feet; No. 23

Farwell No. 10, drilling in the sand at 4400 feet; Alexander No. 1, in oil sand at 4400 feet; Meyer No. 5

in gray sand at 4477 feet; and No. 6

My Dear George: Just a word to indicate my well-grounded belief that you will not allow yourself to be deterred from your positive conceptions of duty by any suggestion of a recall or the like. This community has not turned anarchistic yet, and will not do so in the near future. There may be genuine differences of opinion with respect to the propriety or expediency for the enactment or continuation of the statute book of this or that law representing or limiting individual action. When the time comes for a suggested change in the law, and I will take such stands as our individual sense of justice and expediency may determine. There can be no question, however, at any time as to the duty of everyone to obey the law as it is written, nor as to the questions as to the duty of officers entrusted with power and authority to insist upon an observance of the law as it is written. Willingness to violate the law by anyone, it is their sworn duty to terminate such violation and bring those responsible therefor to the bar of justice. To do or fail to do so to the contrary would be to undermine the very foundation stones upon which our whole social structure is erected. It would be to destroy government and induce anarchy.

Neither may it be said that the law is to be susceptible of violation or disregard merely because the doing of the same will suffice to enable the alluring appeals of human charity to be given greater heed. Whatever is established law in our community faces the bounds of human conduct in the particular behalf, and there can be no cause of a charitable or sympathetic nature which can or should be permitted to stand in the way of the law. It stands above the law.

All this is said with no intimation of prejudice or partiality. I am involved in the recent disturbances in our city, but solely in view of the suggestions made that a proper way to express disapproval of existing laws is to ask for the recall of those who have the courage to enforce the law. If I were to suggest a meeting of "protest," it would be for a meeting of our liberty-loving people in emphatic protest against the violation of law in our midst.

In greatest sincerity, yours,

COUNCIL TO ACT ON BLUE LAWS

Move Afoot to Ascertain Public Preference

Criswell to Offer Plan at Monday Session

Calls for Parley of City and Public Committees

The first indication that the City Council is not entirely in sympathy with Los Angeles "blue laws" was given yesterday when Councilman Criswell announced that at Monday's session of the Council he will introduce a resolution to summon a public hearing committee to work with a special committee of the Council to ascertain if a revision of the laws is warranted.

Councilman Criswell said: "I shall at Monday's session of the Council introduce a resolution directed to the acting president of the Council to appoint a special committee of the Council, of three members, to make an investigation into the entire public dance question. In the resolution this special committee will be directed to invite the following organizations to each send a representative to work with the special committee:

"Church Federation of Los Angeles, Hotel Men's Association, Los Angeles Federation of Parents-Teachers Association, Public Health Proprietors and Managers Association, Chamber of Commerce, Central Labor Council, Young Men's Christian Association, Y.W.C.A., Women's Christian Temperance Union, Civic Association and Los Angeles Federation of Women's Clubs.

"I shall introduce this resolution, as it has recently been indicated, possibly a public opinion poll should be revised to meet changing conditions due to the growth of the city. Whether or not such a resolution should be changed will be ascertained by the committee, which I shall ask to report to the Council at its next session within the shortest time possible.

PRECEDENT CITED
"I shall suggest this method of handling the situation because four years ago we were faced with a similar condition. The committee representing various organizations was appointed to make a similar investigation and report to the Council."

Councilman Criswell pointed out that, although at the first session of the committee, a considerable disagreement between the various elements, eventually a record was reached and a unanimous decision was reached. The recommendations were followed to the letter and the committee suggested by the committee, he said.

"Four years have passed," the Councilman continued, "and it is told that conditions have changed and that the time has come to revise the dance ordinance. The committee representing various organizations will investigate conditions, probably hold one or two sessions, and report to the Council."

THREE-SCORE YEARS APART
John Connor Meets Sister Here First Time Since He Left Home Before Civil War

"Well, well, how you have changed," said John Connor, 90-year-old Civil War veteran of Oakland, to his sister, Mrs. W. E. Fiero, 52, of Detroit, when the two met at the home of Mrs. Fiero's daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. E. Fiero, at 4217 Dalton avenue.

"That's right, John, I have changed," shyly remarked his sister. "And you don't look like you did when I last saw you."

The conversation was not small talk. As a matter of fact both had changed since they last met, seventy years ago. The aged couple are enjoying their reunion with the delight of childhood.

Many times in the seventy years that passed since the brother and sister parted, the two have been within a short distance of each other. Fate or circumstances, on each occasion, they said, contrived to keep them apart. At last the sister decided to come to California to visit her son and other relatives. She wrote to Mr. Connor in Oakland and he arranged to visit in Los Angeles at the same time.

As a lad Mr. Connor was always of an adventurous spirit. After he had finished his education at the University of Michigan, he came to California, where he started to farm. They had played hooky and then the earliest of families having similar names, the one Connor, on his part would look up his other relatives in the paternal grandfather's side, and the California for short visits, he said.

Gently but firmly Mr. Foss led Santa Claus Johnson to City Prosecutor Friedlander's office.

Mr. Friedlander's business is to prosecute peddlers, but although he is not of the cloth, or even a Rabbi's son, his heart failed him in the emergency.

He was a big, thick book filled with ordinances—47,425 of them, to be exact—and No. 45,929 explicitly stated that Mr. Santa Claus Johnson had violated the law.

return to California to spend the rest of his life.

He is known in every corner of the world where sailors meet, among his famous exploits being his election to the office of vice-president of the Republic of Guatemala. He has commanded the Manchuria for the past seven years and previously to that sailed under the flag of the Pacific Mail for more than thirty years.

The Manchuria, a craft 600 feet in length, will run opposite the liners Finland and Kronland between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The Manchuria gained fame as a transport ship during the World War through her feat in carrying to France a complete battery—four cannons and thirty-two men—of the huge United States Navy rifles used on the Western front. She was one of the largest ships in the world, carrying more than 6000 troops in a single voyage, and came successfully through several brush wars in the Pacific and Atlantic.

Prominent among her passengers for Los Angeles were: D. M. Brown, president of the Los Angeles City Council; Maj. Gen. R. H. Wadhams, U.S.A., retired, and Mrs. Wadhams, and Dr. George H. Wadhams, chief surgeon of the White Star fleet.

It will be a very cold day and when Mayor Cryer apologizes for the stand he has taken on this dance question.

Respectfully submitted to every citizen without regard to creed or party.

public hearings, and then advise the Council as to whether or not it believes the public dance ordinance should be repealed.

Why is that? They say, it is in playing into the hands of stooge-pieces to satisfy long-standing grudges? With hold-ups at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on the alleged "busiest corners in the United States" (Sixth and Main), restaurants entered and robbed while patrons fled in terror, and the police are in the way into places where they will be perfectly safe.

It takes nerve and good shooting ability to attack a strong man. Perhaps the police have nerve, some of them have, but what of the 30 per cent? What is the pistol score of the average policeman? Is he a man "afraid of his gun"? Can he shoot straight and quick? Could he pass the ordinary national guard pistol drill?

These are some of the questions the Los Angeles citizens are asking. Can our most marvelous of all police authorities "in the world" give straightforward answers to these questions?

C. P. BROWNING.

TREAT ALL ALIKE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the Times of the 1st inst., appears an editorial under the heading, "Police and the Dance." Which you refer "to the ball which was given by the Motion Picture Directors' Association at the Biltmore Hotel, but was stopped by the police at midnight before it was fairly started. It was an unfortunate incident."

Again, you say, "The police, of course, are not subject to criticism. They enforced the law as they found it." In what way, you ask, consider the incident "unfortunate?" You say, "The police enforced the law as they found it." In what way, you ask, consider the incident "unfortunate?"

The anti-dance element will be met at a mass meeting at the Biltmore Hotel tomorrow morning when Rev. William L. Bennett, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will preach on "Judge or Witness?" taking the stand that preachers should be "witnesses of God, not judges of their fellowmen."

NO HOLDS BARRED
 Anna Pavlova says that Americans do not dance—they wrestle. Anna is half right and the wrestling is largely of the catch-as-catch-can order, at that.

TRIFLES LIGHT AS AIR
 The mistake of a surveyor in the days of the Civil War has led to complications over the ownership of a bit of land half an inch wide in the heart of New York. The strip is just about big enough to bury an angelfish, but it costs a lot of money to acquire title.

WOMANLY
 Investigation of a wobbly automobile on a public highway disclosed that it was carrying a small consignment of Jamaican ginger. Strange that the trifling kick lodged in this feverish condition should extend itself to the mechanism of a ponderous bus wagon.

AN AFFAIRING TALE
 Down in Texas a farmer submits for public inspection a potato that is four feet long and weighs thirty-six pounds. That is a good-sized contribution, but one of our home-brewed ranchers says that he has raised tubers in the San Fernando Valley that he has had to peel with a steam shovel. He has seen these potatoes with his own eyes.

FITS THE THRONE
 King Alfonso has six children, a comely and sensible Queen and is himself conceded to be a good sport. He is democratic and behaves like a regular fellow. That is why the average Spaniard leaves his King out of it when he embarks upon any revolutionary adventure. Were Spain a republic the people would still call for Alfonso. The ruler is no intellectual marvel and his statesmanship may be under suspicion, but he fits his country like a glove.

STATE RIGHTS
 It is pointed out that, although Senator Underwood is listed as a vet, he voted for prohibition in his own State of Alabama and also for the bill providing State support and enforcement for the amendment. In other words, he believes that it is one of the questions which belong to the State and has an old-time southerner's resentment of the assumption of Federal authority. On the face of the returns he is more of a prohibitionist than a lot of the politicians who are listed as extra dry.

SCENIC BILLBOARDS
 The new law in Maine forbids billboards and advertising on the highways of the State and some of the rugged scenery of the Pine Tree commonwealth is being spared for the eyes of its citizens. But, of course, this act extends also to public property. There is nothing to prevent some Showhagan farmer from renting the roof of his barn to the exploitation of malted milk or fabric tires. But the influence of the law may extend until the people themselves furnish the proper protection to the eyes of the tourist.

MUSIC AND STRIFE
 The geniuses who write the nation's songs are the guys who start the wars. The director of a great symphony orchestra, who has just returned from an extended sojourn in Europe—an experience which included residence in several musical capitals—gives his belief that the world is verging upon another great war. He reaches this conclusion from the fact that the new music of Europe is abrupt, slightly incoherent and hysterical. It seems to reflect a nervous condition, like a volcano trembling with the premonitions of eruption. The music is wild and the people must be in like mood. According to this reasoning, if the man from Mars were to look in upon one of our evening frolics and listen to the ravings and paroxysms of a full-fledged jazz band he would swear that America was on its way from the barbecue to the madhouse. If the music of Europe is going to start a war our own would start a riot, a conflagration and a cataclysm.

BACKWARD, TURN BACKWARD?
 A German scientist is said to have worked out a system of rejuvenation that not only brings back vanished youth, but prolongs the life as well. Dr. Frederick Heyman, the sage in question, has arrived in London to try his hand in England at turning 40's into 20's again.
 His method is a simple system of blood transfusion that revitalizes the patient's constitution and brings back the glow of youth to the pallid cheeks of age. In cases where direct transfusion is not deemed advisable a serum is injected that has the same beneficial effect.
 As consulting surgeon at Breslau and Leipzig universities Dr. Heyman carried on his experiments in this line and is reputed to have made some remarkable cures as well as successful rejuvenations. He will treat women up to the age of 60 and men up to 70 years. Many patients who were in a pitiable condition of frailty and general decrepitude emerged from the hospital after a course of the doctor's treatment with the health and looks of persons in their early youth.

BALANCED PROGRESS
 Balanced progress will be impossible in Los Angeles and Southern California if population is permitted to outstrip industry. No community can achieve enduring prosperity that is not self-supporting.
 Exceptional opportunities are offered for establishing key industries. We have raw materials in abundance. We have cheap fuel; and the influx of population has created a local market for the consumption of the major portion of what the mills and factories would produce. But, if we are to have these industries in the near future, we must not wait for others to build them for us, we must act as a community to serve ourselves.

More than 70 per cent of all the wool grown in the United States comes from twelve Western States. Yet these States do not manufacture as much as 10 per cent of the products of this wool. It is shipped East or to Europe and its manufacture provides employment for hundreds of thousands of workers; then the manufactured products are shipped back and sold here.

Millions of bales of cotton are grown in the Southwest. Most of it is shipped to the East, to Europe and to Japan. The textile mills that should be located here are built in those distant places; and the textile products are shipped back here for sale.

The chief supply of hides of the United States comes from the West; but the factories that convert these hides into shoes, trunks and other leather products are located in the East.

California has mountains of iron ore; and a railroad is now building to bring from Colorado an abundant supply of coking coal; yet our iron and steel products are brought from the East and we pay for them on the scale of a "Pittsburgh plus."

This condition must be reversed if we are to enjoy continued prosperity. Factories can be built here cheaper than in the East, where the cold-weather problem has to be considered. Our workers do not have to contend with excessive heat in summer or with excessive cold in winter; for climatic conditions are exceptionally favorable to industry the twelve months through.

Oil, gas and hydroelectric power provide cheaper power and fuel here than in any other industrial district in the United States. We have the raw material, and we have a local market to consume the manufactured products; and we have a harbor at our gates, with shipping to carry the surplus products to the ports of the seven seas. Why are we lagging in building these industries?

There has never been a time when key industries were so necessary; and there has never been such opportunity for the successful establishments of these industries. Yet it is a regrettable fact that the greater part of the investments of Los Angeles capital are in what may be termed speculative enterprises. We are overcapitalizing in oil, real estate and building; and underinvesting in enterprises that would give a profit to the investors and would provide employment for the tens of thousands who have come to reside here and who must depend upon their labor for their sustenance and that of their families.

Patriotic citizens of Los Angeles and Southern California cannot delay longer considering these facts if our present prosperity is to be stabilized. We must rally to the support of every legitimate new industry which, from its nature, is calculated to succeed here.

Investment in any of the substantial key industries is perhaps as safe an investment as is offered in Los Angeles and Southern California at the present time; and every dollar put to work in that way will yield a double return, for it will tend to increase the value of the real estate by providing remunerative employment for our tens of thousands of new lot-buyers and home-buyers.

Let us have fewer subdivisions, for the present at least, and more industries.

ACCORDING TO GERTRUDE
 Gertrude Atherton declares her profound belief that in the very near future "all morons will be painlessly exterminated." The fact that they will be wanted into the hereafter in a painless manner, of course, mitigates considerably the seeming harshness of this statement.

One wonders who is to have charge of the selection and extinction of the subnormal elements at what will happen if these latter all join together and refuse to be painlessly executed for the common good. Their numbers vary, according to the computations of the alienists and psychologists, from 30 per cent of the population to the more conservative estimate of a mere 50 per cent. It would be quite a Herculean task to round up these numbers and herd them into the lethal chamber. And, dreadful thought, if all of the lower order of intellects were blotted out of the intellectuals might have to fall to and perform the hard tasks and unpleasant chores that must be done. It is only when the rough work is done and the wheels of industry running smoothly that a nation has time for artistic pursuits.

DEADLIER THAN THE MALE
 The gentle art of pugilism has taken a tremendous hold on the women of the continent, especially the Germans. This does not consist of sitting and watching bouts between male pugilists. The Berlin night life features bouts between women pugilists who are muscular and well trained and this uplifting sport has spread to France as well.

While pugilism is admitted to be a lowering sport when the participants are men, all observers are unanimous in their statements that prize fights featuring feminine boxers are utterly degrading, both to the women themselves and the audience, who are largely men. The fair champs sport the cauliflower ears that so often attend the combats of the sterner sex, and the witnesses of the combats shriek with joy, according to eyewitnesses, when one of the women is knocked out.

The fights are the more thrilling because it is impossible to get the women to abide strictly by the rules. No lady ever played a game without having to fight a longing to slip something over on her opponent, and the fighters don't worry about repressing such impulses.

A Paris correspondent reports a fight between two hefty 16-year-old girls in Berlin that was so revolting that curious foreign visitors left in disgust. Women fighters, it seems, display a ferocity such as male pugilists never evince. The uplifting spectacle terminated when the handsoner of the two had her front teeth knocked out and then was laid out for the full count by a blow

On the law. The Frenchman stated that the effect on the audience was utterly brutalizing and demoralizing, and if such bouts were allowed to continue they would hasten European civilization into degeneracy.

CHRISTMAS GIVING
 Los Angeles as a whole is making its usual preparations to provide Christmas cheer and bounty for those who, through misfortune, are unable to prosper, and in the very old. Nor are there signs of any abatement this year in the Los Angeles Christmas spirit.

But, as Dr. D. F. McLaughlin, head of the County Charities, has pointed out, the extraordinary growth of Los Angeles has increased the number of the needy and consequently the task of the individuals and organizations engaged in Yuletide charity.

For this reason a centralized campaign is deemed advisable by those who have in hand the carrying on of this labor of love and Christian fellowship. Since our city has been blessed more than ordinarily in the last twelve months we all want to pass those blessings on to those who have missed their share.

There is no question of any shortage in the gifts and offerings that our people are ready to provide. As usual the Shriners—those great-hearted givers whose name is synonymous with the joy of helpfulness—being besieged with letters from those whose Christmas will be dreary without their aid. The Salvation Army, the Knights of Columbus, the Knights of Pythias, the Elks, all our fraternal orders, "Brother" Lidoecot and the United States Navy among others are preparing hampers of good "eats" and presents of all description to cheer the Christmas of their poorer brethren.

Giving, however, is not the only item in our charitable Christmas undertakings. Organization is equally important that the good cheer of the donor may reach every worthy recipient. For this reason, to secure efficient distribution and no overlapping of effort, the Christmas committee of the Social Service Commission has appealed for unity among organizations and individuals in administering Christmas cheer to the needy.

Only by assembling the general love of human nature in a centralized campaign can the spirit of Christmas giving be adequately expressed. The head must supplement the heart.

STEALING EXTRAORDINARY
 The most unusual theft in modern times, since "La Joconde" was taken from the Louvre, recently occurred at the Palace of Versailles. Two famous Gobelins, perhaps the best known of the many there because they form part of a series depicting scenes in the life of Louis XIV, mysteriously vanished during the night. They are of enormous size, seven feet by eight. One depicts "The entry of Louis XIV into Dunkirk," the other "The king issuing from the trenches at the siege of Douai."

The Echo de Paris remarks that the thief might just as well have stolen the towers of Notre Dame. It will be impossible to dispose of the tapestries, since they are world famous. Their enormous value would prevent anyone except a wealthy connoisseur, or perhaps the directors of some foreign museum, from purchasing them and these would know immediately that they had been stolen and apprehend the thief.

The possessor of the priceless tapestries could not even hang them on his own walls to soothe his aesthetic soul, since photographs of the stolen treasures will be broadcast all over the civilized world. The French government is reported as not working over the loss, since it is confident that the tapestries will be recovered.
 The police have figured out that four men took part in the robbery, so that it must have been undertaken for gain. Instead of being the effort of a half-crazed art lover to gain possession of a masterpiece, when the bandits dispose of their booty they will be apprehended and the tapestries returned. The theft has shown Paris art lovers that precautions must be taken to guard the treasures at Versailles, as at present the park is protected solely by a watchman who makes the rounds once an hour. Because the works of art housed in the palace were known the wide world over it was not deemed necessary to have the grounds patrolled by sentries, since the treasures would be useless to a thief.

On the law. The Frenchman stated that the effect on the audience was utterly brutalizing and demoralizing, and if such bouts were allowed to continue they would hasten European civilization into degeneracy.

CONSTANTINOPLE GOES DRY
 November 13 was a red-letter day in old Stamboul, for the new prohibition laws went into effect in the historic city on that date. These strike equally the seller and the consumer, as the latter will get forty strokes of the bastinado and a fat fine besides. The Turk reasons rightly that he who buys is quite as guilty as the one who sells and will be punished accordingly.

The Mussulmans had worked up a large and expensive thirst since the Allied occupation, despite Mohammed's injunctions against wine. Enterprising liquor dealers had laid in a stock sufficient for seven years and they were allowed no time to dispose of their supplies. The amount of doped alone, an overpowering concoction similar to absinthe, was said to be sufficient to intoxicate the whole City of New York.

Thirty thousand establishments employing approximately 30,000 people were summarily closed by the police.
 This marks the last chapter in a bitter struggle by the Turks to prevent the drink evil being fastened on their people. During the Allied occupation efforts were made to suppress drinking by Ottoman subjects, but it was not until foreign authority in the city ended on October 3 that the Turks could really take the situation in hand. Constantinople had a very large foreign population and there was nothing to prevent saloons that catered to these serving "Turks" well.

Mustapha Kemal's cohorts do not anticipate the troubles the United States has experienced in enforcing dry laws. A few bastinado treatments will cause the boot-licker to turn his business talents to some less remunerative but safer occupation. With the exodus of all Greek and Armenian merchants the police will have only native dealers to cope with, and these have a wholesome fear of Ottoman justice.

AIN'T IT JUST SO

Professor Dick Beeson says he guesses prophesy is something he doesn't understand, but every few days he picks up a paper and sees where some man has got back from Europe and he tells us.
 Or a day ahead, even, what Dick Junior might do about much of anything, although he has lived under the same roof and made a study of the youngster ever since he was born, and lived under the same roof with Dick Junior's paternal aunts and uncles and Grandparents before he was born. And in the same town with his maternal aunts and uncles and Grandparents. The jurist had gathered of them, although he has done all this, he can't prognosticate. And he wonders how the guys who talk to the papers learn so much in so little a time about so many people, or is it a gift.

THREE FALL.

RIPLING RHYMES

THE OBJECT LESSON

They often had plucked me for speeding, they fined me and threatened the pen; I went from the court little heading and hit the high places again. Today I loomed up for a hearing; the scene made me sad and ashamed; for there in the court were appearing poor cripples whom speed sends mad maimed. The jurist had gathered the injured, a lesson to speed-crazy men; I viewed them and I will be gingered if e'er I go scorching again. Sad aunts and their heart-broken nieces, deprived of a slat or a wing; old men with their legs in valises, a kid with his arm in a sling. Young men who but lately were clever, prized clerks in the office and store, now broken and ruined forever, poor relics on motorroad's shore. And once all these cripples were gifted with health as abundant as mine; and they had their dreams as they drifted around on their errands benign. They had their ambitions, their motives, their visions of useful careers till speed sends them by in their autos and tangled their forms in the gears. I looked on the wounded and twisted, I gazed and my soul gave a wall; the jurist he wotted and wisted he'd give me nine fortnights in jail. WALT MASON. (Copyright, 1923, George Matthew Adams.)

 South Dakota One!

Magnus Johnson says he has a cure for the ills of Europe. The needle, Watson, quick.

Another blast from Hiram Johnson. Blasting is the specialty of the senior California Senator.

With two Presidential candidates California is merely following the example of Ohio in 1920.

The voters of the country are going to give President Coolidge a chance. The result in South Dakota means this.

The world's not lost. Here in Congress and the English elections, both the same week, and the earth still remains in its place.

The Democrats stood like one man against the election of Speaker Gillett. Whatever you may say about them they are good guys and when the leaders say "play dead," they do so with alacrity.

One way of securing the repeal of an unpopular law is to enforce it. That was the idea of Gen. Grant and it wasn't at all bad. The point in this remark is in the application of the same.

A new milestone has been passed in radio progress. "Hello, America" was held by half a dozen receiving stations from Glasgow, Cardiff, Liverpool, Newcastle and Bournemouth a few days ago, and Garden City listened in on a piano solo in Britain. Greater success would have been achieved if San Antonio and Chicago had not broken in. An apology ought to be forthcoming from both places.

THIS IS THE DAY

The first written Presidential message was read to Congress in the year 1801. It was sent by President Jefferson to the Seventh Congress. Prior to this it had been the custom for the President to appear in person and speak his message. The custom of written Presidential messages remained unbroken for more than a century, till President Wilson in 1913 received the older form.

TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS

BY ALMA WHITAKER

I am the temporary possessor of $25 that has started out upon a career of Christmas adventure.

It arrived by check in a letter from an invalid lady who wants me to see that it produces a little happiness for somebody.

Ah, yes, I can hear the big sisters hasten to remind me that $25 can be a boon and blessing to the league which takes care of girls whom the jail has touched, but per chance not irrevocably tainted.

I can hear the Bide-a-Wee chairman assure me that $25 will do all sorts of jolly things for that home they are establishing where poor mothers may live without parting from their babies in the assurance that said babies will be cared for while they go to work.

The Orthopedic Hospital, which straightens little children's backs and legs, the Home for Crippled Children, the Children's Hospital, the various orphan homes—every one of them will cast an enticing eye upon that $25. The Assistance League could use it very nicely. So could "Shell's Rest Cottage" for tired working women. So could the Maternity Hospital, where poor new mammas and babies get such wondrous care. So can the Cateelar Creche, where homeless babies are loved and cherished. Lots of churches would like it for missionary work. Several clubs would welcome it in their building funds. Numerous music and art uplift movements would wish it to further their noble ends. It could do wonders for the sad aged ones at the County Farm. In fact, if I had a couple of hundred $25 donations to disperse I could place them all in entirely worthy causes.

It is quite an alarming responsibility—the placing of that $25. I owe it to that gentle lady to see that it really buys $25 worth of happiness.

One compromising soul suggested that I should give $5 to five different charities. But I sort of want to lump it.

Another bright suggestion was that I should juggle it and make it work two or three times over. I was for instance, to use it to buy new books for the Friday Club's bazaar—the club to sell the books, keep the profits and return the $25 capital to me. Then I was to buy $25 worth of those clever things made by the Disabled Veterans on sale at that Hollywood shop—the sort of encouragement these disabled heroes of ours most appreciate. Then I was to give those things to either the Assistance League or the Big Sisters League or the Children's Hospital shop to be sold all over again for their cause—and thus give $25 worth of help to three good causes.

That idea rather intrigues me, but I can see myself chafing that $25 all over the city and putting in $100 worth of time keeping track of it.

And besides, it would be rather luxurious to make just one directly successful individual $25 worth of happy.

But, oh, when it comes to selecting that individual.

I know a mother of eight children who is tremendously grateful because father, who has been out of work for weeks, is now earning the delicious sum of $20 a week. It would be riotous wealth to her.

I know a disabled "eteran," just a boy of 25, who is so paralyzed that he squints, his tongue hangs out, his legs drag, his whole physical condition is utterly calamitous—yet his keen and, alas, now cynical intellect is still very virile and active behind those tragic eyes. Twenty-five dollars might temporarily allay just a little of his pitiful cynicism—$25 worth of affectionate appreciation from a sister invalid for a broken war hero.

I know an old lady who hasn't had a new dress for eight years and manages to live cheerfully, graciously, decently on $4 a week. Twenty-five dollars' worth of pretties would be a wonderful addition of long-drawn-out glories there.

I know a little family of broad-winners has just gone to bed and his 14-year-old boy is making preparing to support the home. Twenty-five dollars might ease the boy's heart from breaking over little white.

So here I am still undecided, $25 worth of help, accommodation cheer awaiting its rightful nation.

It is the hardest problem I had to solve in a long time. But it is a problem I have solved. I am saying a little prayer for guidance.

One of the most laughable things about Earthlings is that they don't seem to really know anything about themselves.

It is generally accepted in America, for instance, that men in general are practical creatures, while all that is artistic and poetic is appreciated only by the women. All the poetry of life, the most essential in keeping alive the aesthetic is a commercial art in the clubs, which are constantly turning poets (from foreign countries chiefly) to lecture before clubs and interpret for them the music of the spheres.

And yet, gazing over the borders of Earth readers (by means of our radio scope), we have been impressed by the fact that the most essential in keeping alive the aesthetic is a commercial art in the clubs, which are constantly turning poets (from foreign countries chiefly) to lecture before clubs and interpret for them the music of the spheres.

Those three, together with the Ladies' Home Journal, are undoubtedly the most widely read magazines in America. In it is a commentary on the superiority of American women that two of the most famous poets of the world, Mrs. Zueca and "Together We Will Go, Love and I," by Pom-pom, the Girl, possessed of excellent voices, sang together with the harmony.

The school string quartet played on Beethoven, and also rendered "Link to Me Only With Thine Eyes" arranged by Pochen. From the orchestra, attention to the numbers was displaced. The numbers were: "Love and I," by Pom-pom, the Girl, possessed of excellent voices, sang together with the harmony.

 Los Angeles is proud of its schools, and the Polytechnic High School, one of the first institutions of its type, is worthy of a high place in the public-school system of the country. Students of Polytechnic were guests in The Times studio last night and broadcast their talents to Radioland.
 The program featured the Girl's Club, the String Quartet and the orchestra, who entertained in a most entertaining manner. The numbers were: "Bounteous Morn," by Maria Zueca and "Together We Will Go, Love and I," by Pom-pom, the Girl, possessed of excellent voices, sang together with the harmony.

LESSON XXVI
Daily Sewing Hints from VOGUE

LINING A COAT

When ready for the lining a tailored coat should be sent to a tailor to be thoroughly pressed as heavy iron and skillful pressing will prevent an otherwise home-made appearance.

The back of the lining is a trifle larger than the back of the coat, as is also the front across the chest to give freedom to the coat when the arms are moved. This slight fullness is laid in a small pleat down the center back and at the front shoulder and sewn only at the neck shoulder.

After careful pinning and basting the lining is basted to the armhole seam of the coat (the coat sleeve having already been stitched to the coat.) all other edges turned in and hemmed to the coat, the back shoulder seam being turned in and hemmed over the front shoulder.

The sleeve of both coat and lining are turned wrong side out, the front seams basted together, the bottom of the lining turned in so that it is about one inch shorter than the coat sleeve, and hemmed. The lining at the top is turned in and hemmed to the coat lining covering the armhole seam and basting which hold the coat and lining together at this place.

Careful observance of the above instructions will produce the correctly tailored effect as shown in illustration.

If you desire further information regarding any question of dress-making, write "The Vogue Editor" care of The Times. Your letter will receive prompt and careful attention.

BACHELOR OMELET
Work to a cream half a teaspoon of milk and one teaspoon of flour. Beat the yolks of three eggs until creamy, add the flour and milk and beat again. Beat the whites of three eggs until stiff, add the yolk mixture and mix lightly. Melt three tablespoons of butter in a small frying pan, when hot turn in the egg mixture; when this starts to set sprinkle over the top finely chopped boiled ham and parsley; set in the oven three minutes; fold and turn onto a hot platter; garnish with parsley and slices of broiled ham.

CORN BREAD
Sift one cup of corn meal with one cup of sifted flour, four level teaspoons of baking powder, two tablespoons of sugar, and half a teaspoon of salt. Add two well-beaten eggs, mix and beat in slowly one cup of milk and one tablespoon of melted butter. Four into a buttered square baking tin and bake in a medium oven fifteen minutes.

CREAM OF CAULIFLOWER
Boil the white part of a small head of cauliflower in boiling salted water for thirty minutes; drain, cut out six small clusters, and press the balance through a sieve. Pour cold water over the small clusters and lay aside. Melt one tablespoon of butter in a saucepan, add one tablespoon of flour and cook smooth; add four cups of hot milk, the cauliflower puree, and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Stir over a slow fire ten minutes. Place the small pieces of cauliflower in a tureen, pour over the hot soup and serve with croutons.

FILET OF BEEF, CRANE
Trim the fat from a three-pound piece of beef filet and season all over with pepper and salt. Cover the bottom of a small baking pan with half a cup of chopped salt pork, one scraped and sliced small carrot, one peeled and sliced onion, one sliced stalk of celery, two teaspoons of chopped parsley, one sliced leek, one chopped clove of garlic, one crushed bay leaf, twelve whole pepper corns, one whole clove and one-quarter of a teaspoon of powdered thyme. Lay on these the seasoned filet of beef, spread with two tablespoons of melted butter, add two tablespoons of water to the pan and bake in a moderate oven forty minutes, turning and basting once. Place the filet on a hot plate and set in a warm place. Skim the fat from the gravy, add half a cup of strained orange juice, reduce one-half; strain over eight sliced canned mushrooms, heat, pour over the filet and serve.

CRAB LOUIS
Remove the meat from a large cold boiled California crab. Mix one-third of a cup of mayonnaise with two-thirds of a cup of cold sauce, one tablespoon of chopped English chow-chow, one teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, one teaspoon of tarragon vinegar, one finely chopped young onion, and two teaspoons of chopped parsley. Cover a cold platter with shredded lettuce, over the lettuce arrange the crab meat, and over all pour the sauce. Garnish with ripe olives and lemon slices.

WHIPCROOKS, SLEUTH URGES

Pinkerton Advocates Lashes
as Fit Punishment

Detective Finds Crime Wave
Now at Its Crest

Says Liquor Law Violations Lead to Others

Whip criminals and you'll have less crime, says William A. Pinkerton, head of Pinkerton's National Detective Agency of Chicago. Mr. Pinkerton, who is staying at the Elmore, is in Los Angeles to inspect the local office of his agency. He is a man well along in years, having been born in 1844, but he is still active in the business, which was founded by his father, Allan Pinkerton, seventy-three years ago.

"I've been accused of being brutal for advocating the whipping post and the pillory as a punishment for crime," said Mr. Pinkerton. "But I'm a firm believer in these methods and have so expressed myself on numerous occasions before police conventions and in discussions with officials.

"Hardened criminals who have been flogged at penal institutions where that form of punishment has been practiced have confessed to me that they would rather face ten years than ten lashes.

STRONG DETERRENT

"I recall one instance where a group of bandits entered a town to rob a bank. They found a public flogging about to take place and after watching the operation they gave up their enterprise and left the place in great haste. As a deterrent of crime I think whipping would fill the bill, and as for its brutality I hold that no punishment is too severe for some of the crimes that are committed."

The detective says the crime wave throughout the country is now at its crest. Never before were so many crimes committed, and at no time in the past has there been such an increase in the number of law violators.

"Hold-ups have this list of criminal activities today," he said. "In that I include all cases of obtaining valuables through violence. And the most striking peculiarity of a majority of these cases is that the perpetrators are young men or boys just starting on a crime career. Time was that when a sensational hold-up was committed it was usually found to have been committed by old-timers well known to the police."

"Not so today. When the thugs are run to earth they are most frequently found to be persons never heard of before."

The present prevalence of crime is in part the aftermath of the war, Mr. Pinkerton says, but he believes criminality has also been greatly increased as a result of the prohibition law.

"In the first place, liquor law violations are so common that they have bred contempt for all law. A vast crop of bootleggers has developed who make money easily and spend their gains like drunken sailors. They operate under the most degrading influences and in a tight place will not hesitate to commit any crime. As to whether or not the government will ever succeed in enforcing the prohibition law is a question regarding which I am not optimistic. They tied for fifty years to check moonshining among the mountaineers in the South and failed."

FILMS NOT FEARED

In reply to a question as to the influence of motion pictures depicting crime, Mr. Pinkerton stated that such films are on the wane and that he did not believe this factor played any appreciable part in the increasing criminality.

"When the motion picture first came into vogue there is no doubt that the films showing the commission of crimes in detail had a bad influence. Protesters against such scenes, however, have served practically to eliminate them. I hold that any police officer or other official who takes part in the production of such pictures is not a fit person for the place he occupies and should be removed. I cannot make this too emphatic."

WOMEN GET QUARTERS

Athletic and Country Club Plans Conveniences in Building

Thin women may acquire that healthy, out-of-doors look and the pleasingly plump ones may regain that schoolgirl slimness unimpaired and unobserved by the male at the Southern California Athletic and Country Club's new building under construction on Wilshire Boulevard. For those who wish to take on or remove flesh by the more stringent method—a gymnasium and plunge, separate from the men's, is planned. Special instructors are to be engaged for women members.

In the construction of the building a number of other features are to be incorporated for the convenience of women members and their guests. The architect's drawings call for a separate entrance for women on Coronado street, while the men's entrance is to be on the Carondelet street side, on the opposite side of the building.

Separate elevators will furnish service to the women's quarters. The women's dining-room and the women's lounge will be located on the fourth floor, while the top two floors, reached through elevators exclusively for women's use, are to be given over to living quarters for women and their families.

Several dining-rooms of various sizes and a number of card rooms assure ample space for luncheons and parties.

INCOME TAX RUSH BEGINS

Hundreds of taxpayers who wish to avoid the inconvenience of standing in line and waiting their turn to make the fourth and final payment on their income taxes are thronging internal-revenue offices and closing up their accounts. The 15th inst. is the last day of grace and the wise taxpayer, officials point out, will call early and avoid the rush.

STATE REUNIONS TODAY

Two State reunions are scheduled today, one at Bixby Park, Long Beach, and the other in the city. Former residents of South Dakota will meet for their annual picnic at Bixby Park. Kentuckians will meet for their opening reunion this evening in the Business Women's Club rooms, at 337½ South Hill street. Dancing will follow the program.

HILL ROAD
ASSEMBLE

Board Grants Exemption
From Civil Service for Mulholland Project

In order to start the construction at once of the Mulholland scenic highway, the Board of Public Works was yesterday granted authority to exempt from civil service 350 engineers and other workers who will construct the highway, so that these men may be employed at once. The employees exempted include the construction engineer in charge of the work, D. L. Reaburn, highway engineer in the Central Building, who is to be paid $10,000 for his year's work, and various assistant engineers, mechanics, surveyors, truck drivers, miners and 300 laborers.

The highway will be twenty-five miles in length and will be built from Calhoun. Pass over the crest of the Santa Monica Mountains, connecting at Calabasas with the State highway between Los Angeles and Ventura. The road will cost $1,000,000, and will be paid for by district bonds which have been voted. Under the terms of the bond issue, the road must be completed within one year. Much of the preliminary engineering work has been done by Engineer Reaburn, so that construction of the highway will start at once.

There will be four construction camps established, and four gasoline-driven excavation shovels will be immediately started into action, operating two shifts a day. It is estimated that the shovels will excavate a total each twenty-four hours of 6000 cubic yards of earth.

STATE PAYS GREAT FUND IN TAXATION

Gives More to Government Than Sixteen Neighbors in Western District

United States Collector of Internal Revenue Goodell yesterday completed a survey indicating from the amount of interest on government bonds not wholly exempt from taxation, reported in their income returns by taxpayers of California and of sixteen Western States, that the people of this State are more patriotic in their financial support of the government than are those of sixteen Western States combined.

The report shows that California reported for taxation interest on government securities of this character amounting to $2,324,046, which is greater than the combined total reported by Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming, which turned in $2,388,000.

California reported as much interest on government securities as the combined returns of the six Eastern States of Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Shut-in Shop's
Opening Sales
Net Neat Sum

The opening sales of articles made by needy invalids and disabled with the assistance of the Shut-in Shop of the Assistance League netted a total in excess of $250, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Sol Morris, chairman of the Shut-in shop committee. The sale was conducted in the league's community house at De Longpre avenue and St. Andrews Place, Hollywood.

The money realized at the sales is being distributed to the needy men and women who produced the articles. Mrs. Morris stated that the sale of these articles will continue indefinitely as scores of poverty-stricken who are confined to their homes have appealed to the shop for aid. These are receiving materials from the shop and receiving instruction from experts in the work of converting these materials into purchasable products.

Coote Case is Continued to Next Monday

Because another case was in progress in the court of Judge Hardy, the trial of A. W. Coote, local broker, accused on seven counts of embezzlement in connection with his business, was continued yesterday until next Monday. Coote was represented by Attorney Victor E. Shaw.

Coote is now at liberty under heavy bail. He was indicted by the grand jury last August, following the failure of his business and an asserted loss to his clients of about $2,000,000.

It was understood that the case would go to trial on the date set.

Westinghouse Engineer Dies
in Los Angeles

Ralph Gilman, widely known electrical engineer of Pittsburg, Pa., died late Thursday night at the Methodist Hospital here, after an illness of nearly three weeks. Mr. Gilman, with Mrs. Gilman, had come to Los Angeles several weeks ago to visit relatives. He was a brother of Harold A. Gilman, local attorney, and Mrs. Harlan Shoemaker, 511 South Serrano avenue. He leaves also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Z. Gilman, and two sisters, Mrs. George Free and Miss Eunice Gilman, all of Redlands. Mr. Gilman was 42 years of age. He was associated with the Westinghouse Electrical Company and had had charge of several electrical engineering projects, among them the electrification of railroads extending New York.
